PREVIEW: THE ACHEWOOD COOKBOOK

Perfect Oven Fries Every Time — Recipe by Ray

I know you've had some oven fries before and you're thinkin' "Man, oven fries are a joke!"

I know! I know! Usually they are!

I totally agree with you.

Somebody makes you some oven fries…they're all soft and not crispy and maybe not even cooked all the way…no one likes that! What's the point of bein' healthy if you just gonna end up angry and eat a gross taste that you hate?

Pat makes some pretty bad oven fries. They're like eatin' hot slugs. He's so proud of them, bringin' them to every potluck we have. We have a thing we do where we throw them away.

One day I had had enough of bad oven fries. I was all like, "Look, I ain't got a bunch of oil at home to deep fry with. That is a hassle. But there has got to be a way to make crispy potatoes in the oven. Other crispy things come out of the oven."

And that was all the reasoning I needed.

Try this recipe. If you fail at it, it's because you didn't do it right. There are crispy fries waiting to come out of your oven: you just have to make them and put them there.

Al Roker Body Mass Timeline
Fridays, 1 unit
Instructor has a large easel, on which are stacked silhouettes of Al Roker's body mass over time. Instructor peels away, one leaf per class, revealing the next exciting turn his body took.

Wino Poker
Tuesdays, 1 unit
In this class, local winos are collected from various encampments along the railroad tracks and made to play poker in a police interrogation room. They wear red foam noses and undersized bowlers. The winos are each awarded one unit. Would make a good painting.

Crêpes Suzette
Wednesdays, 1 unit
Does listening to sad music make you sad? Then come listen to the music of Crêpes Suzette, a French pop band who always include samples of themselves and ladies having orgasms together, often three-at-a-time.

Hate is a Fag
Thursdays, 2 units

Predictive Text Messaging: The Italians
Mondays, 2 units
Many modern cell phones have a system where you type a portion of a word and it guesses the rest of the word for you. This is meant to save you time. There is a rumor that the Italians are very good at this because they use it so much. In this class, several Italian guest speakers answer your questions via a cell phone hooked up to an overhead projector.

Popular Items
Tuesdays, 1 unit
The Scion van is popular, as is the Livestrong bracelet. Eating chicken is popular again. Rollerblading has gone into a strong fade. Bed-head is still popular with models and rock bands. Muscles maintain their timeless chic.

Beer Can Chicken

Ray Says: "This is a recipe I always like to make when I have a special lady over. The bird cooks for about an hour and a half, during which time you can serve champagne and see where things lead. I often find that there is a point during the preparation at which you will sense that the lady has resigned herself to your power and charm. If this happens, just turn the oven off and forget about dinner. Throw the chicken away the next day."

INGREDIENTS:

A 5-lb. chicken with all the guts teared out
1 aluminum can of beer, half full
1tsp onion powder
1tsp garlic powder
1/2tsp salt
1/2tsp pepper
Spray oil
(It's not real complicated)

PROCEDURE:

Preheat the oven to 400°F. Line a small roasting pan with foil (shiny-side down). Pour all the seasonings into the beer can and stick it into the big butt opening of the chicken. See if the lady notices. Then sit the chicken upright, like he was in a chair, onto the roasting pan, using the beer can as his base. Spray his skin all over with the oil (this will make it crispy). Throw salt and pepper all over his skin and then stick him in the oven for like a hour and a half. The fluid and seasonings in the beer can will steam all up through the bird and flavor it, as well as keep it real moist.

Make sure that a meat thermometer stuck into the deepest part of the breast and deepest part of the thigh registers at least 160-170°F. Juices should be clear and not pink. Let sit 10 minutes.

This recipe appears in both Volume I and the Achewood Cookbook. All bound volumes contain special print-only content.

It's baseball season right now and that means lots of good baseball fun for baseball fans. I think baseball is over later this month. ## ACHEWOOD CITY POLICE DEPARTMENT

Incidents of Police Record for the date September 8, 1932.

IN LARAMIE ST.
Eulalie Dorsson, of 14 Laramie St., reports that groceries valued at $3.42 were damaged by animals before she could meet the grocer and bring them in. A packet of coffee beans was opened and contaminated by claw marks, tins of Italian tomatoes were tossed about roughly and scraped, and 2 lb. of ground beef was missing entirely.

Barbara Fenwick, of 62 Laramie St., reports that several chrome strips were removed from her automobile. Deputy reports confirm that said pieces are missing. The automobile is a '25 Mettering Type VII. Reward.

IN PINING WAY
David Grimes, of 175 Pining Way, had left his hat outside for a moment when he returned to discover that it had been struck through the crown with a sharpened dowel. Mr. Grimes (Dexter '02) reports that several of his old college chums may have been in the vicinity, with no good purpose in mind. Several animal tracks were found in the area, perhaps made by special molds belonging to Mr. Grimes' college chums. Investigation open; contact with the chums has not been established.

ALONG ACHEWATER CREEK, WEST COÖPERATION
The body of a vagrant was discovered early yesterday morning along the West Coöperation at Hooper's Gate. The pockets contained several dollars in loose change, and a wallet with photographs remained intact. Only the curious detail of the vagrant's hair having been tied to a nearby blackberry bush via a half-dozen lines of twine distinguished the otherwise common scene.

SOUTH OF THE WATER TEMPLE PEDIMENT
Trespassers once again dislodged the grate covering the main aqueduct exchange. Found about the scene were several discarded liquor bottles and one extremely small novelty hat. Youth are suspected.

PENMAN SQUARE
Each of the perimeter refuse bins which demarcate the border of the square was set aflame last evening. Responding officers noted nothing other than a preponderance of curious raccoon eyes in the underbrush, which quickly dispersed when a rock was thrown.

CROFT-BYMAN SUBDIVIDE
A fresh boar's hide was found draped over the Croft-Byman gate yesterday morning. Perversely, the creature had been decorated with four tiny black boots, and a miniature wallet found nearby held a photograph of what is assumed to be a lady-boar.

EAST ACHEWOOD
A hound dog was found hanged by the neck, strung up on the automatic railroad crossing gate. The cord was long enough that the dog could stand on the ground while the gate was down, but not once the gate lifted. This is the fifteenth such incident in recent months, a crime which detectives have nicknamed "mailbagging." No leads have been identified, but officials have stated that the perpetrators always wrap the victim's head in a burlap Gravenstein apple sack prior to placing the noose.

Sherovoam Duncan was arrested on charges of public drunkenness outside of the What Cheer saloon on Broadway.

Murray V. O'Dowd was arrested on charges of public drunkenness outside of the Tam O'Shanter saloon on Larkhurst.

Immanuel Rutlidge was arrested on charges of private drunkenness, in his own bed, so loud did he yell his own name and cry for arrest. It is the first known case of its type.

A man's body was threaded through a dozen car tires and rolled down Parson's Grade. The man came to a rest in Swinehart Creek at Mooney's Mill. The dome of his head had been exposed during the roll and was extremely damaged by rocks and brambles. Investigation open.

Stanislaus Kyrevjcny, 31, toppled the house of a neighbor with whom he had been having an argument. He pushed hard on the neighbor's wall until the house fell down. The neighbor sat there, in his garters and shirt, without even his collar, as the dust settled into his breakfast soup. He blinked several times incredulously as the Pole stood by and laughed.

A local meeting of the Men of Promise, a Christian husband's club, was so overcome by the spirit that they overturned a child's pedal-car. Mr. Einar Ingvaldsson, of 341 Drake, upon inspection of the toy, decided not to press charges, at which point the accused returned to the church to consume juice and swap impressions of the event.

OBITUARIES.

Eldred Phepps, 65. Mr Phepps was found deceased next to his cat, also deceased, in his East Achewood pension. Cirrhosis was determined to be the cause of death for both. Mr. Phepps was remembered by his neighbors as a troubled widower who had lost all six of his sons at Chemin des Dames.

Mr. Phepps will be cremated by the city. No services are planned.

Marjorie Rozenfeldt, 83. Mrs. Rozenfeldt took her own life in an East Achewood doss house. Mrs. Rozenfeldt had lost eleven grandchildren in the battles of Gallipoli, Trentino, and Jutland. Her husband Abraham passed away eighteen years prior.

Mrs. Rozenfeldt will be cremated by the city. No services are planned.

Silas Manning Graham, aged 3 months. Baby Silas was tragically poisoned when an exotic orchid wilted into his crib and the deadly flower was mistaken for a suckling teat.

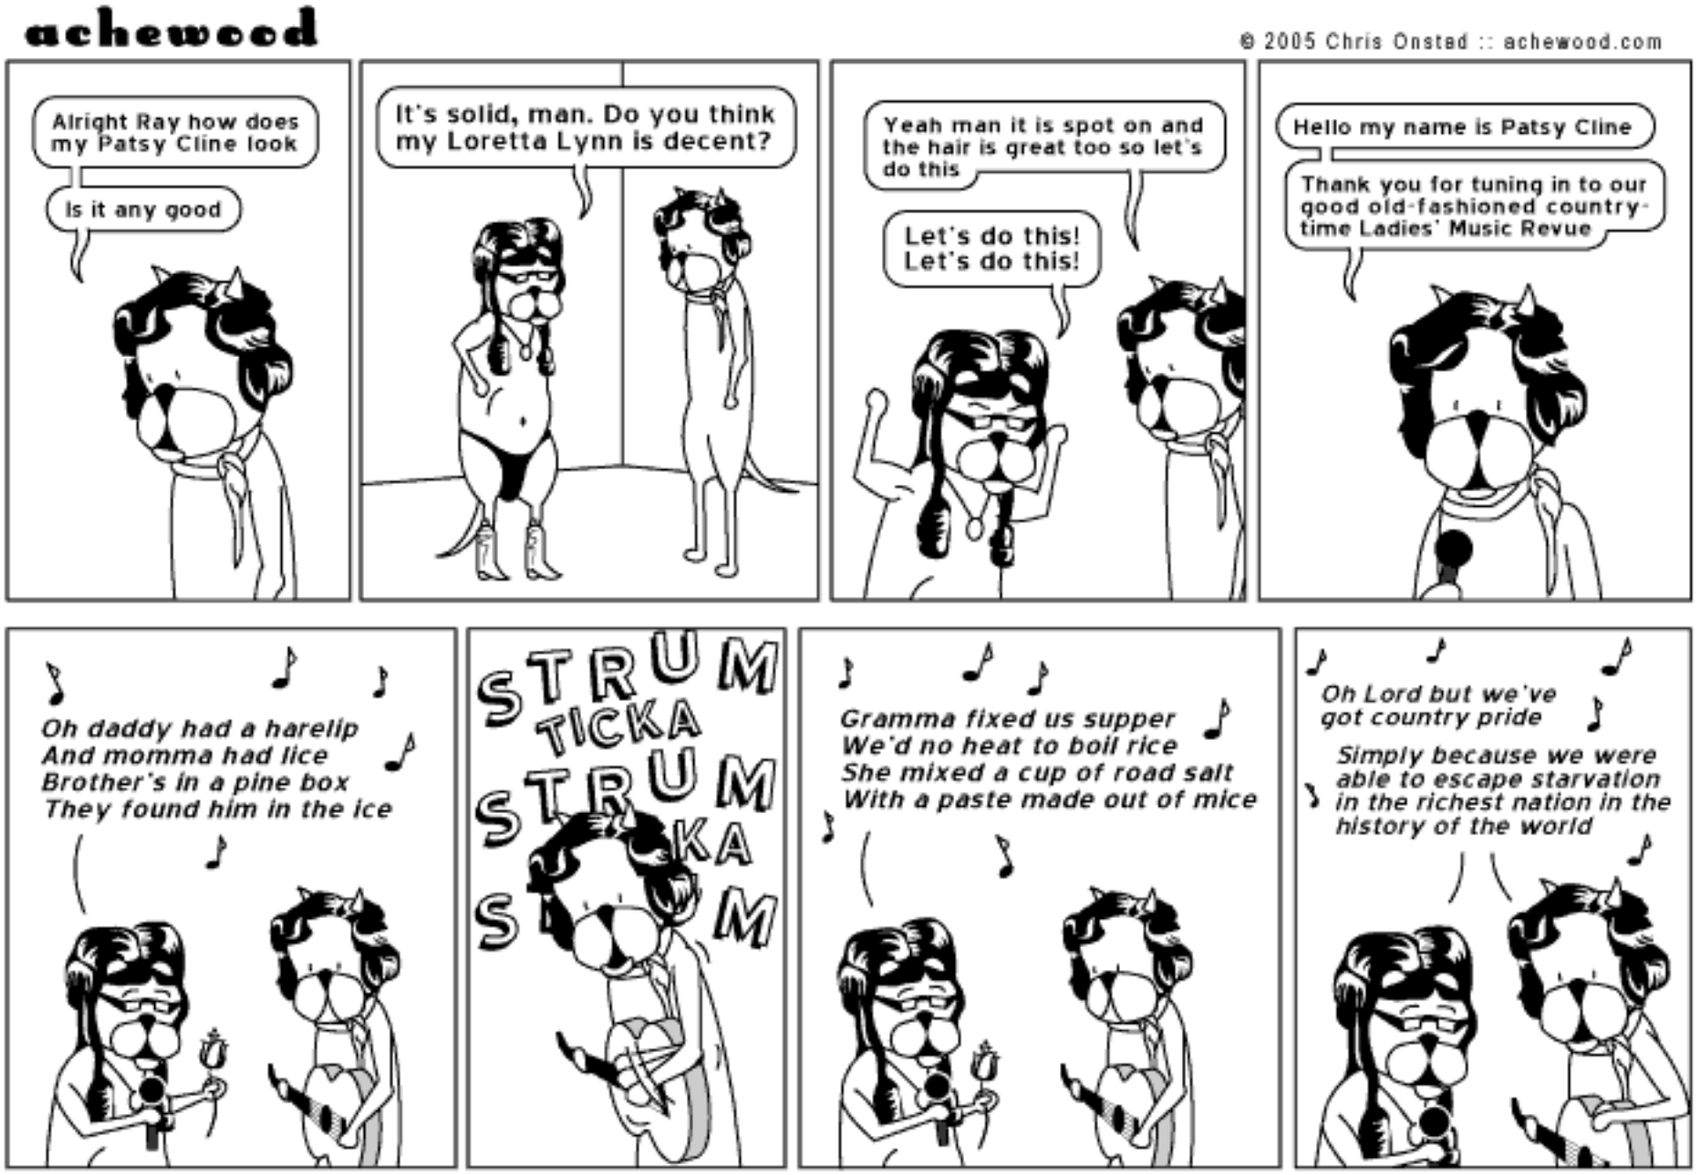

Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Graham plan to donate a new library to Dexter University in honor of their son's passing. Funeral services to be held Tuesday at Our Lady of the Divine Grace, Achewood Heights, 10:00AM.

Map of Achewood Underground

Survey 187-B-109298  C.H. Mohr & Assoc.  sn. 1 of 7

Excavation and construction of the Achewood underground began in earnest in 1945, spearheaded by billionaire (feline) developer J. Vincent J. Lemoni, who sensed an imminent postwar population boom in the area. Achewood is connected to the National Subterranean Transit Link (NSTL) via light rail, and is a Full Communications Partner with international privileges via Craydon Teledyne.

Prior to 1945, non-human species assumed residence in natural caves, forests, riverbanks, and abandoned buildings (mainly in the blighted East Achewood division, where sightings of "animals with human behavior" were generally written off as hallucinations by the chronically intoxicated populace).

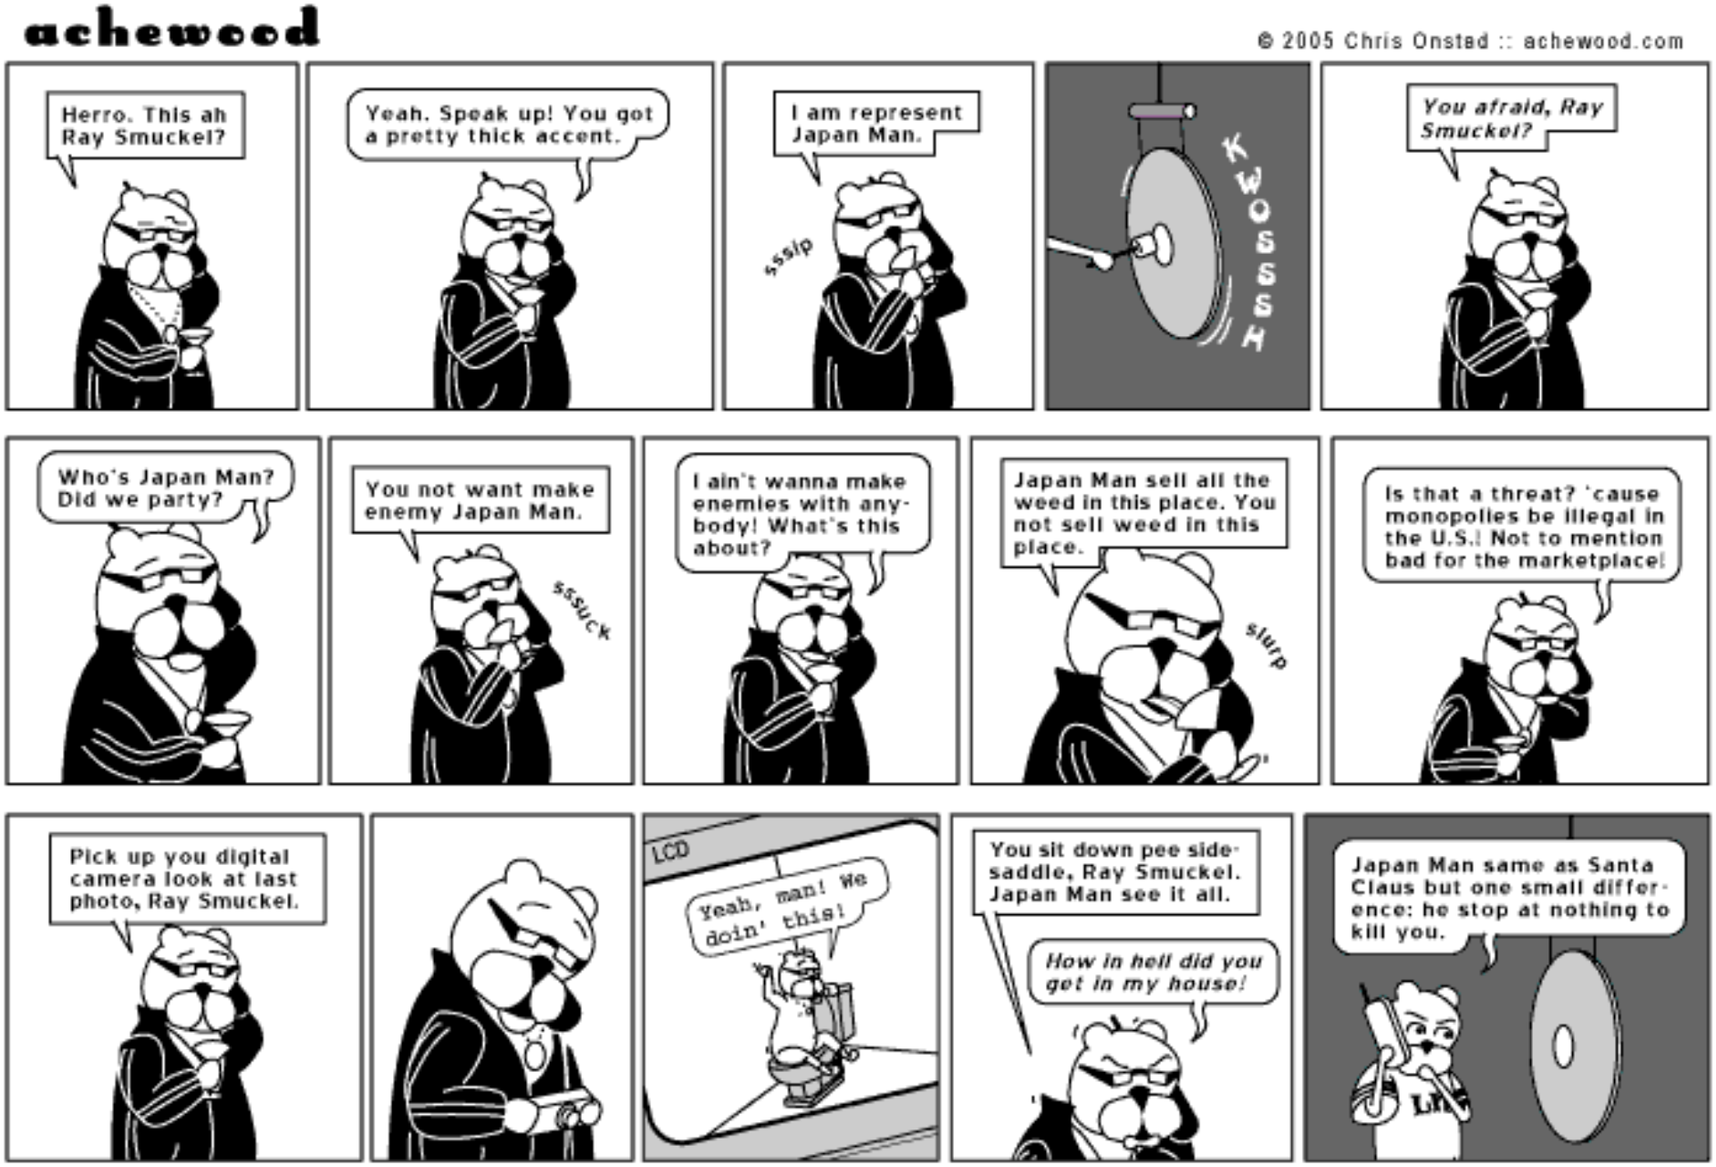

Mr. Lemoni sought to create a framework where commerce could flourish, safe from human detection. The Achewood underground has been a modest success, and as of this survey has enjoyed the addition of an upscale shopping district and new medical center. All Achewood underground property is leased from the Lemoni Holding Company, and each LHC underground city is conceived as a franchise, managed by a small team of LHC local executives.

Achewood!...a pleasant community.

Culture, Recreation.

Citizens of the Achewood underground happily chase a remote-control car over the crest of a small hill.

Several of our citizens hail from international backgrounds.

Telephone calls can cost a lot...they can cost too much. All Achewood Craydon Teledyne subscribers pay a flat monthly rate for local and international calls.

No Dogs Allowed!

Dogs are not allowed in the underground. This dog is wearing crude, embarrassing underpants which control the flow of her menses.

Neither of these dogs is allowed in the underground.

This dog is attempting to fool you by eating a hamburger. Notice that the dog has no idea how to eat a hamburger in the proper way. This is literally disgusting.

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

DID YOU KNOW...

If you swallow Pop Rocks and Coke at the same time, you won't actually die. I know what I'm doing this afternoon!

Africa has problems! They need money and supplies and clean hats.

Crickets use their legs like violins, but they can't write songs. It's not because they're stupid, they just don't write songs! There is no reason to expect them to.

Don't like tomatoes? Try this trick: eat Chinese food. No tomatoes.

Can you spell hippopatamus? I can't!

If you don't like shrimp then you are just plain crazy! You should have your head examined. Call the hospital!

THE BRAIN tastes a lot like scallops. That's what they tell me! I didn't make that up. I got told that the brain tastes like scallops.

France weighs a hundred billion pounds. This does not include the weight of the buildings or the people who are on France. It only includes the first inch of dirt on the surface of France!

It is considered bad luck to ask a Chinese person if they ate breakfast.

Rob and Amber did not win The Amazing Race Season 2. Fuhgetaboutit!

ACCORDING TO LYLE, his ex-girlfriend was like "herpes" – you could always catch her on the toilet at Burger King!

What does that even mean?!

Rich people LEASE cars, while regular people BUY cars. WHAT?! Talk about backwards!

SOME HAVE SAID that a fiddle is a violin played incorrectly. Don't tell that to a fiddle player, because he probably thinks he is doing a good job.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN got extremely mad once and broke a priceless wooden table. October 28, 1841. (His friend had lied to him)

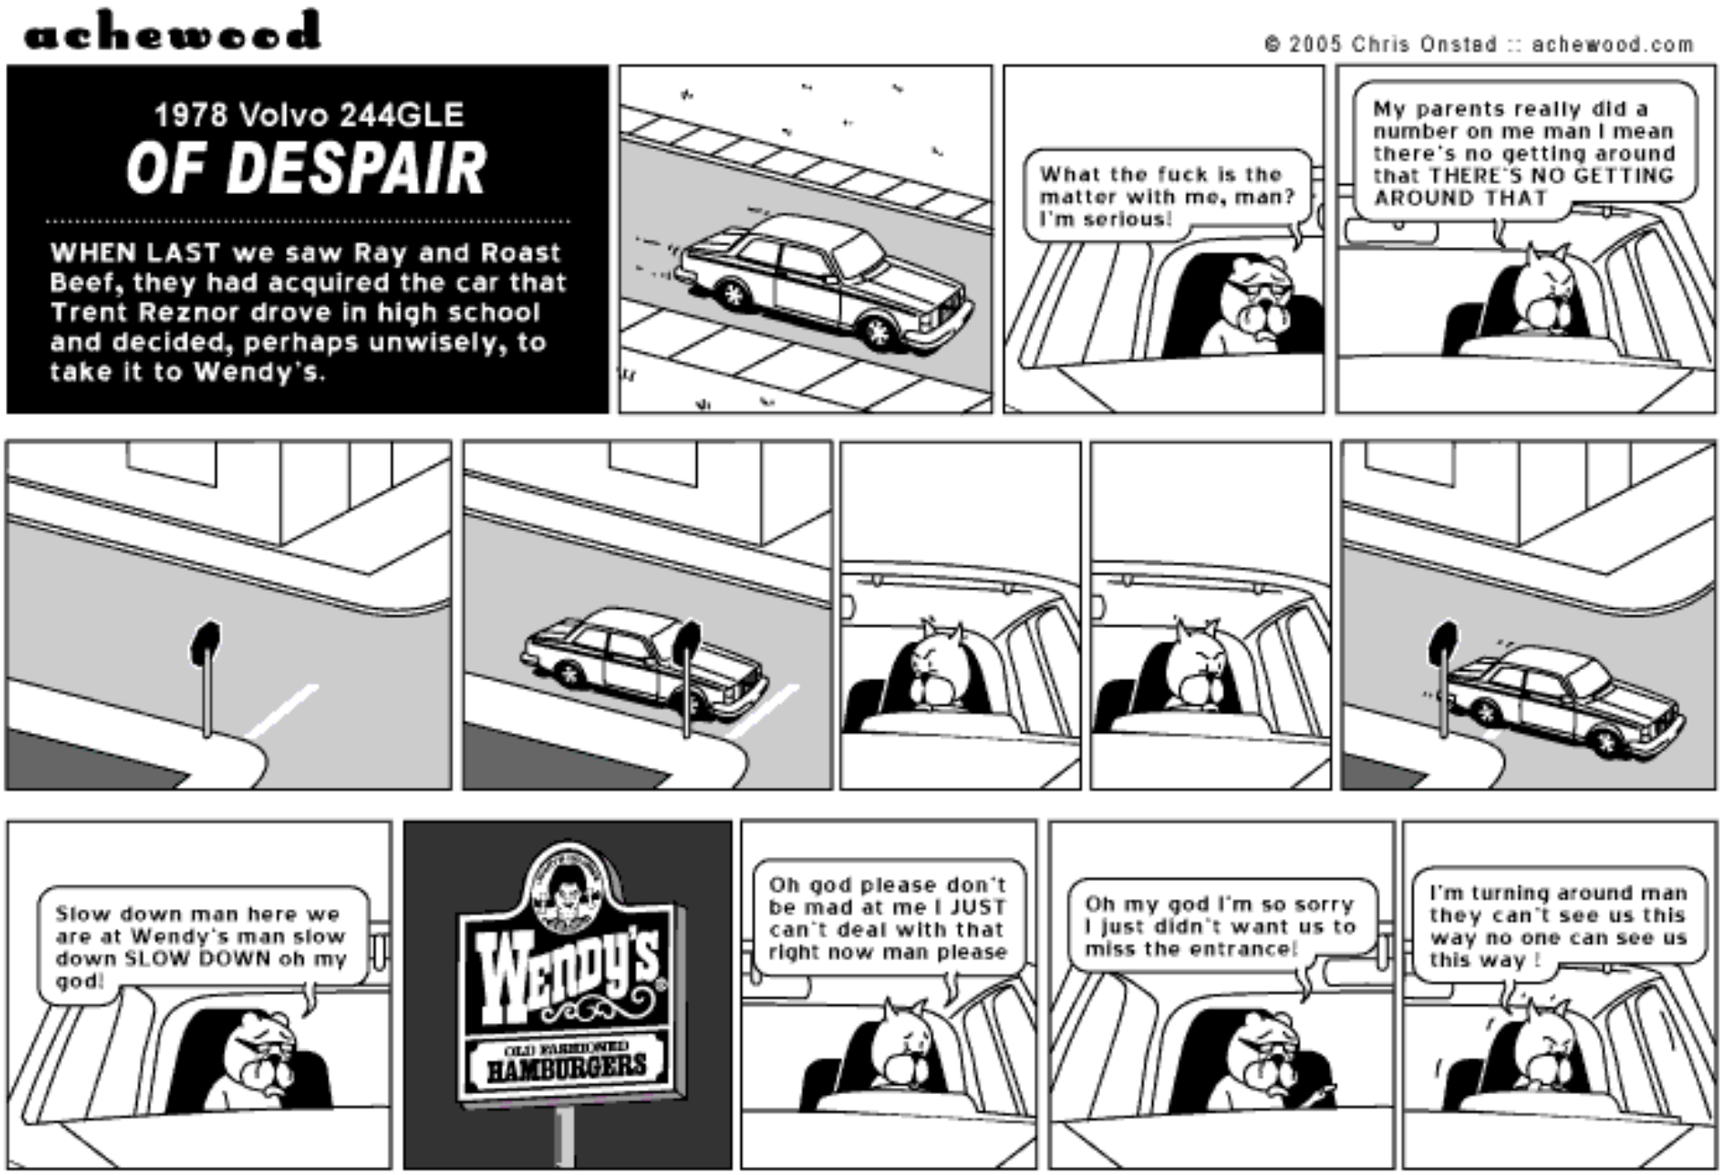

Don't look at fat people! They know what you're up to.

SQUARE DANCING was invented by a person who had a damaged ear! Just goes to show you that people from bad circumstances can still do good in life. It turns out that Square Dancing was the fellow's way of keeping near the song announcer!

Don't look at fat people. They know what you're up to.

KRAFTWERK is touring the US again this month. If you plan to attend their shows, expect to be surrounded by bearded, aviator-sporting white UNIX geeks who cry so hard during "COMPUTER LOVE" that the ten year-old sons they brought to the show with them wriggle free from their bear-hugs and look for someone to talk about Derek Jeter with.

FACT: At a Santa Monica party in June of '98, routinely unmedicated barre-chorder Courtney Love blew actor Michael Madsen so hard that she broke her arm. Madsen, while uninjured, remained seriously blown for several hours.

THINK ABOUT IT: The only actual member of U2 is Flood. The others are just four Irishmen who have agreed not to age badly.

DURING HIS BEDRIDDEN YEARS, Brian Wilson told his wife that he once made a "funicolare" out of a piece of kite string tied from his bedpost to a shoe on the floor. This enabled the ants, he said, to grab the boogers that had dried to the wood and carry them safely down into the shoe.

Stephin Merritt and Guided By Voices have a lot in common. Wait, they only have one thing in common: 5% of their songs are not complete jag-off.

SPOTTED DICK: Michael Stipe, vegan, sat at the counter on a recent episode of Mario Batali's cooking show. Michael ate none of the food given to him. He only went on the show so the famously rotund chef would by comparison enhance Stipe's devastating jawline.

Batali.

IS COLDPLAY THE NEXT U2? No, they just use U2's musical techniques to create music that sounds like U2. It's frustrating for everyone.

Téodor Orezscu is a friend of mine and he knows a ton about music! He said he would like to help me out with the Friday Facts page more in the future so maybe he will. What is "blew"?

MEDICAL FACTS

ASK most doctors what type of surgery they hate to do the most, and they will say "to cut a person's head off."

The symbol for doctors is two snakes wrapped around a flying thermometer. That is so 80s.

Don't want a disease? Rub mustard on your cut! The Bible says that mustard is what Belshazzar used to heal Gonsson. (A "poultice," or so says trusted source L.B.)

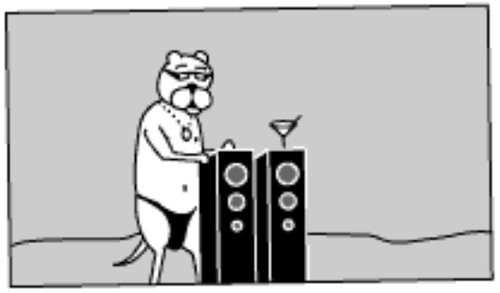

DID YOU EVER WONDER...

If Iraq was the capital of Iran, would THAT solve their problems?

I hate to say it, but salmon must be the dumbest fish in the ocean! Why else would we always eat them all up?

Whatever you do, don't ever tell a mad woman that you know what she was about to say. That is some sound advice from R.B., an older friend of mine who has had a bad life.

Did you know that worms can change their gender even after they're born? That's right! So if you put a boy worm down, and he turns into a girl, you shouldn't yell at him.

Ray has some old speakers for sale. Email him for details.

Ever wonder how hard you can kick a soccer ball before it explodes? Maybe the military has the right equipment. If you are in the Army, let's have a meeting. [I am not kidding. --Philippe.]

NEVER MAKE FUN OF a person who is holding a gun to their head. They could be serious.

Keys! That is what most people forget when they leave the house. The next-most-forgotten item is the humble Quahog clam. Wait, I am having trouble reading my notes. Looks like somebody needs to sharpen his Burnt Sienna!

DID YOU KNOW...

...That I stayed up way too late (new shoes!) and forgot to write my column? I am going to be bad and steal one of Téodor's Cokes so I have some energy. "The show must go on," they say.

Gulp! Hooray! So cold and tasty!

Yum! Did you know the main flavor in Coke is cola, a bean favored by the Mexican Tree Shrew? I saw this on Animal Planet over one year ago, but look how good Coke has made my memory!

 OLD PERSON FACT ALERT ***
Your butt is "something you don't show to people." This is according to Mr. Bear, who is old and eating dinner.

If you throw an orange at the refrigerator, it will kind of smash open, but not an apple! It will bruise. Food fact!

Mr. Bear just said that I am being a "Holy Hell"! Do you think that the priests in Holy Hell wear sleeveless robes? I do!

A rabbit's foot is considered good luck because the hunter would give it to his kids to signify that he had had good luck and lots of the best legends come from kids and now I will tell you a legend of my own it is about the famous Princess who was buried beneath Hogwarts (this is my personal Harry Potter story that I invented) and only Harry Potter's kiss could bring her back to life and she is the one he is supposed to marry not ugly Hermione andddddddddddddddddddddd[]\

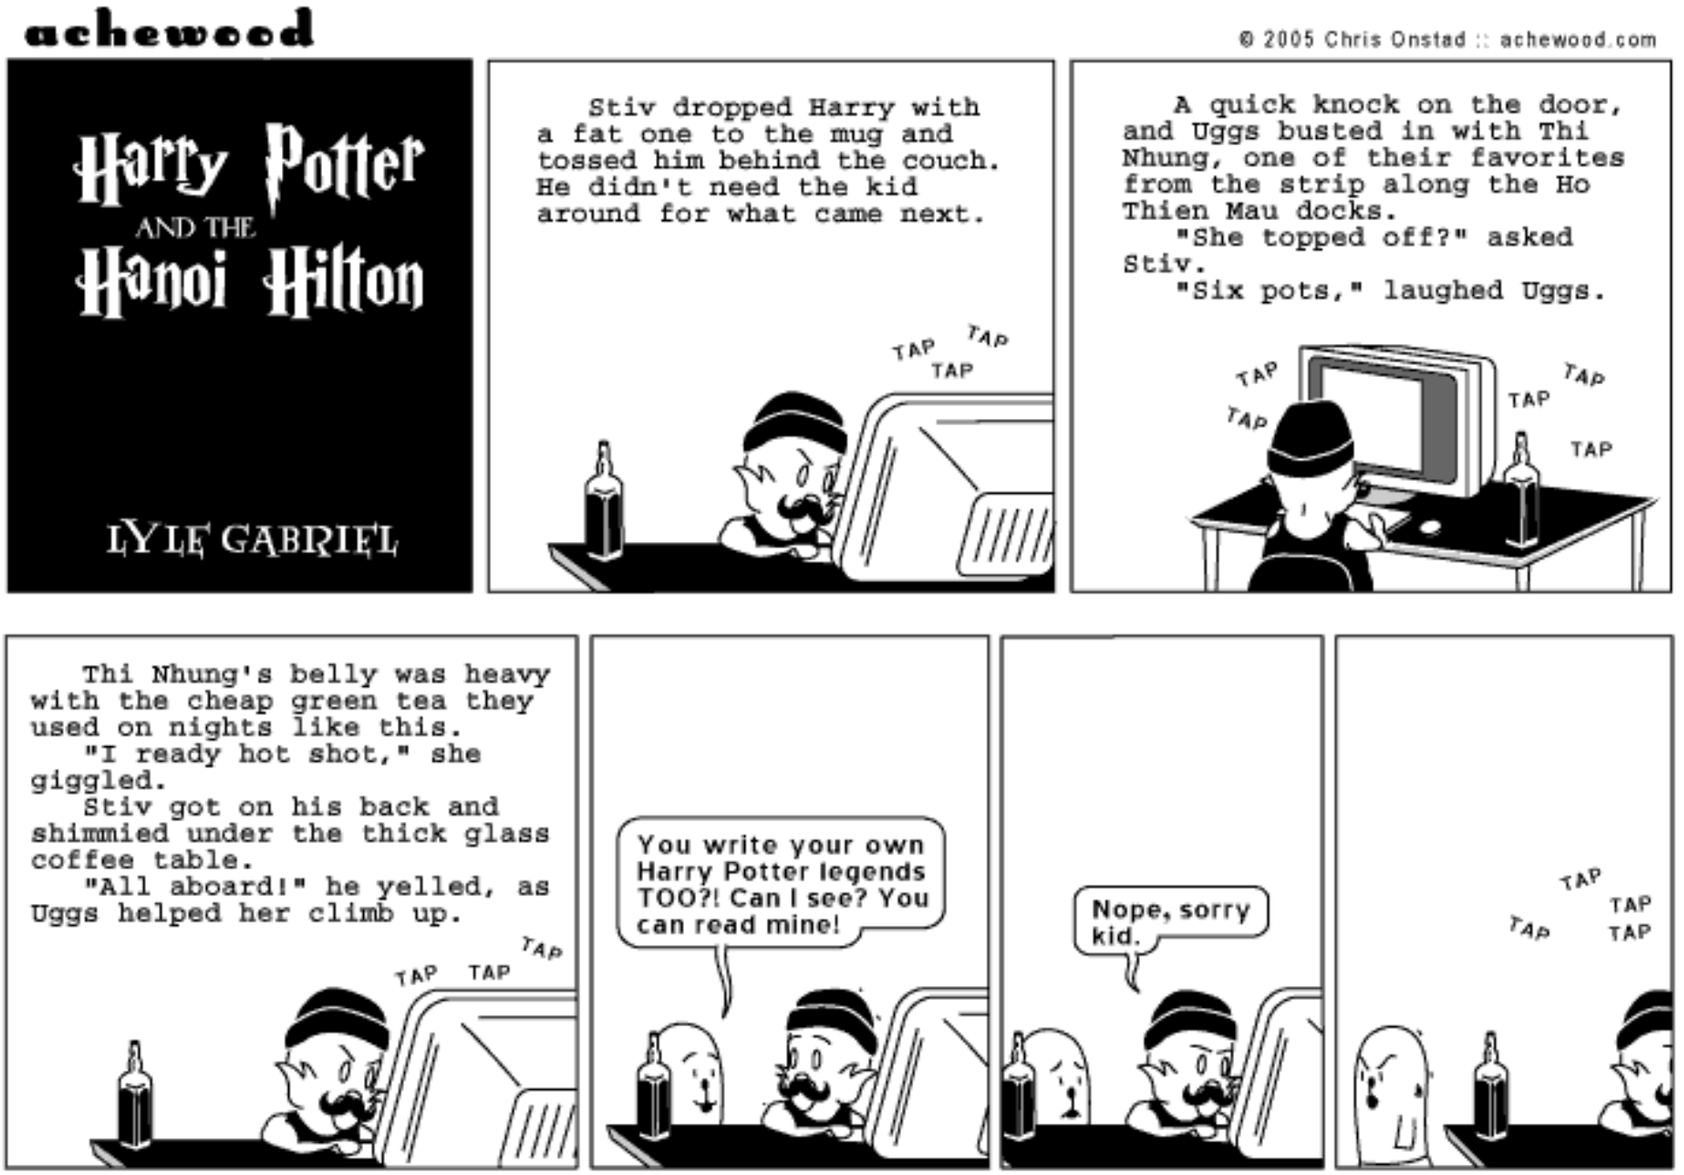

Whoah, what happened? I woke up at the computer and most of my column was written! Phew, what a relief. I will e-mail Roast Beef and he can read it and lay it out for tomorrow. My eyes are all dry and I need to get in the bed. Bye for now!

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

This week: WORLD FACTS!

* * * CHINESE FOOD * * *

Chow Mein is the Chinese version of spaghetti, but if you put tomato sauce on it, Chinese people will be aghast!

Chow Fun is a fat noodle, about eight Chow Meins wide (still no sauce though).

Police: NEVER let a youth gang make fun of an older Chinese man on his way home at night. NEVER, EVER let them knock his hat off. I cried when I saw this.

IRISH PEOPLE have heard it all before, so you can "take a hike."

THE PRESIDENT OF SPAIN is the only President in the world who wears red jeans to work! He doesn't bat an eye!

AUSTRALIAN people...where do I begin. They have hearts full of love! Their women laugh pretty loud though.

GERMANS don't like peanut butter or root beer! (They prefer butter and beer—simplicity equals perfection!)

A boy from another land thinks about America.

ITALY is the only country in the world where men are allowed to cry or pee in public.

RUSSIA is thought of as a cold place, where serious men eat snow and throw cats at walls. You won't catch me going there, not for a million bucks.

SWEDISH PEOPLE crave silence.

AMERICANS have got it all! BBQ, tanks, rockets, football (our definition), and spaceships! Is it any wonder why the rest of the world always thinks about us when trying to accomplish a feat or a marvel?! I tell you, America is the place for me! If you are from another country, come here and I will show you what makes this country so great! (I get up around seven and we can hang out for an hour or so before the good shows come on.)

The Philippe Times. Back Page: Just the Animal Facts, Ma'am! Vol 7 No. 15

Animal Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

DID YOU KNOW...

They say it's bad luck if a black cat crosses your path, but what if a white cat and a black cat cross your path at the same time, going opposite directions? I bet a ghost voice whispers in your ear, "Would...you...like...to...meet...God...?"

I hope no one ever shoots a hippo. I know people can get pretty desperate, but I want to get this idea out there.

When we worry too much we go bald, but what if a bird worries? Does he lose his feathers? No, says a friend. He does not.

The hamburger is probably the most famous food in the world, but it is only eaten in two shapes: round, and square (Wendy's). Has anyone tried to cook one that is curved?

WARNING—THE FOLLOWING IS NOT AN ANIMAL FACT

We always get mad when we get told not to do things, but when we get told to do things, we get mad! (I already sent this one in to Reader's Digest All In A Day's Work so you cannot get an earlier post-mark.)

END OF NOT AN ANIMAL FACT

THANK "U" FOR YOUR PATIENCE!

Ad: What if you could choose TV's fonts?

Lyle threw up at 11:46am on Monday while I was watching Blue's Clues. I had to rewind a little.

Word to the wise: if you exercise, it hurts, but you feel great after. It's different if you eat a Spicy Tuna Roll that you found on the patio table the morning after a party.

Ever tried to get a girlfriend? This can be hard, especially if they are from Asia and they don't like you.

The horse is a weird one. What did he descend from? I don't remember any dinosaurs having such big buns.

Say, I wonder what animal officially has the biggest buns!

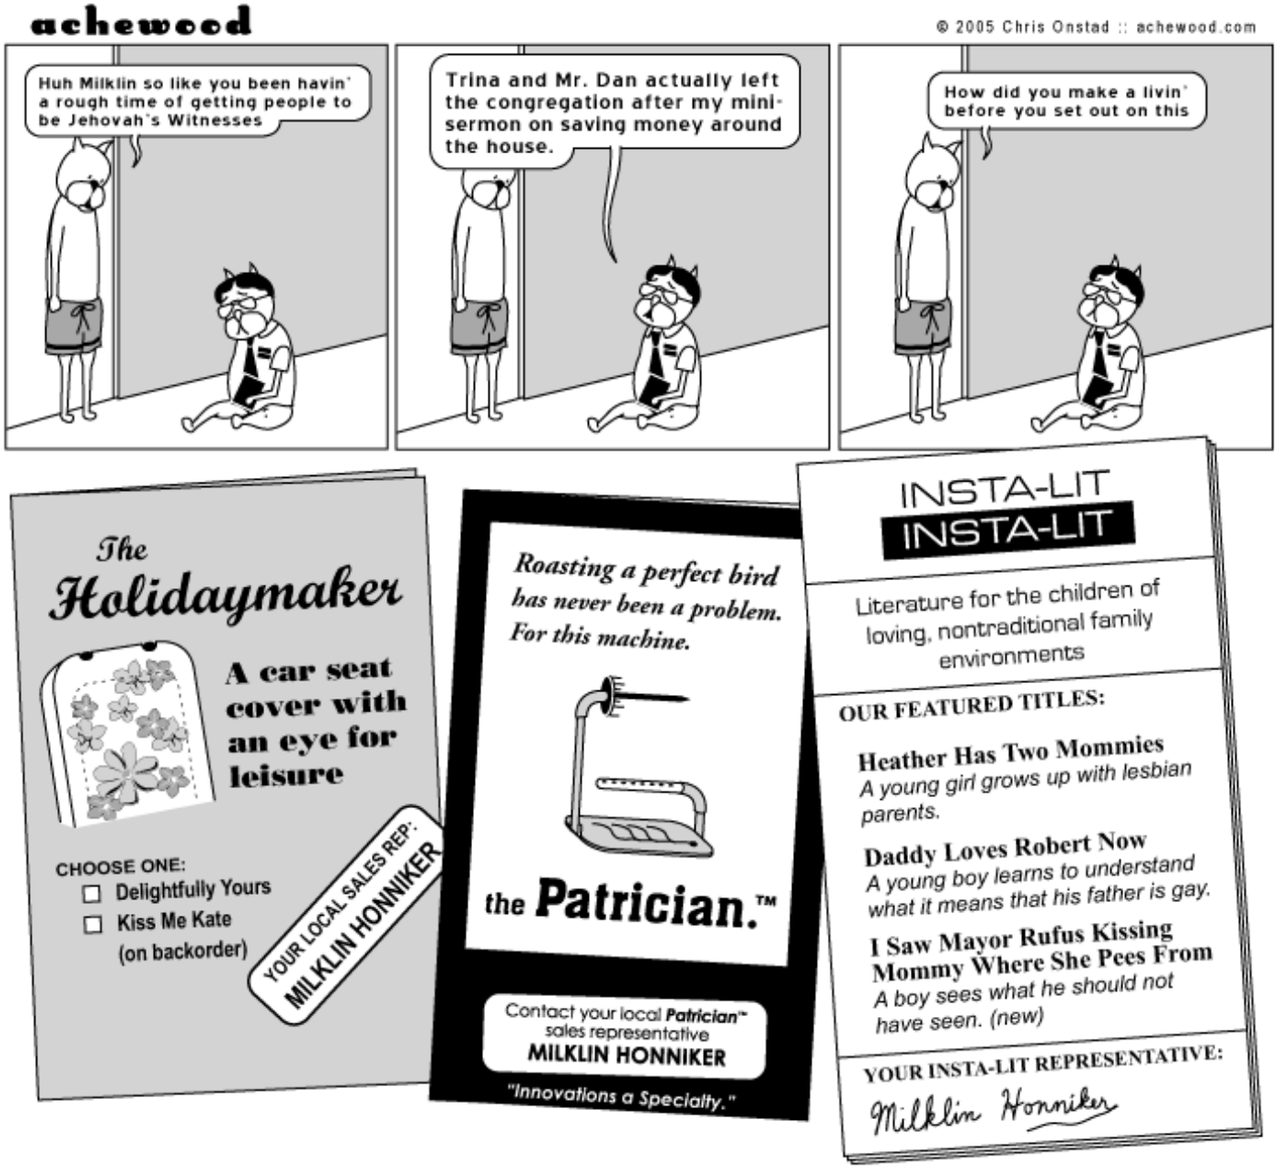

I just called the Kids' Zoo in Seattle, and the answer is: hippos! See!? Leave them alone! (Their average bun is 2.7 feet wide - thank you Karen!)

It's too bad that horses don't care about information, because in a way, hippos are horses' grandpas. Yeah, I know what you're thinking, "just butt out." You may not be used to this, but I actually just butted out.

The hamburger has it all over rice

Dear Readers,

Help us help you! In order to plan our Holiday Gift Assortment, we need your valuable feedback. Please look over the following pre-production items, and tell us which appeal to you the most. Use the handy "item scoring system" below:

1: Would definitely buy

2: Would consider buying

3: Would maybe not consider buying

4: Would probably not buy

5: You should make a shirt with the strip from 1/21/03 on it! My friends and I would totally buy that if we got jobs! —Eric M.,
Glasgow

Dear Eric,

Thank you for your letter. Unfortunately, we do not print comic strips onto clothing, because little things like periods and colons tend to come off in the wash and adhere to problematic areas on one's "Eats, Shoots & Leaves" promotional apparel.

Sincerely,

CHRIS

The Philippe Times. Back Page: Riddle Me This! Vol 7 No. 19

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

DID YOU KNOW...

In China, they say the following riddle: "What has four legs in the morning, two legs in the afternoon, and three legs in the evening?" The answer will surprise you! The answer, according to friend L.B.: a stool that is being modified by the Army to weigh less.

THIS JUST IN: Hey, I'm going to start a riddle company! For fifty cents, I will create a riddle about your favorite thing or friend! My company will be called RiddleMax.

My first RiddleMax client, Téodor, says that his favorite thing is his guitar. Here is his complimentary riddle (for being first):

What's long, stiff, and lives in a furry black cave when not in use? Say, I'm good at this! (sorry to have an ego.)

FACT: There are three kinds of pen: felt-tip, ball-point, and fountain pen. In the past they would write letters using a bird feather, or just go to the person's house and talk about what was eating at them.

R_I_D_D_L_E

Ever wonder why they call it a medicine ball? It's because in the time of the Greeks, medicine was thought to be heavier than water, thus you would get a better workout when tossing a ball filled with it.

A: "Why would anyone want to play with this?"
B: "That is exactly my opinion, William."

E_N_D O_F R_I_D_D_L_E

The WORST way to cook a hot dog? Point a keychain laser at it. I wasted almost an hour!

How early is too early to tell a kid that he's Catholic? Should you wait until he can wear a tie?

"You're Catholic, kid." Sounds like something Humphrey Bogart would say if he was a priest, as he was sprinkling holy water on your forehead!

Sometimes Téodor goes down to Starbucks and gets a "doppio nonfat no-whip mocha valencia" (he typed that in just now!). He says it's his "signature drink." If I had a signature drink, it would probably be water.

How come nobody ever runs for President? I did, and it was fun! I guess they're afraid they'd win, and have to figure out what to do about all the stabbings. (I admit I have no idea.)

A lot of people spend a lot of time making cookbooks, but good country potatoes and eggs will pretty much top you off every time. (Nice Pete is over, and he is saying that in the other room.)

In my picture this week, I had just been sneezing. Don't worry. --P.

It actually sounds more like something WC Fields would say to a kid as he poured rye whiskey over its head.

The Definitive Interview:
RAY SMUCKLES

In his role as a friend of mine, Ray agreed to do an interview for Man Why You Even Got To Do A Thing. This interview was conducted on May 6, 2006, at my place, which is his pool house.

ME: So how are you doing Ray. Are you having a good time.

RAY: Man, don't ask me that yet. I ain't even sat down. You got any grenadine?

ME: Interesting. Let's talk about this. Did your mother have any grenadine, or was that mainly your father's obligation? Because you seem to feel entitled to grenadine.

RAY: Ha ha, motherfucker. Listen, I got to fruit up this Bullshit Sunrise because you have set up the most baloney mini-bar of all time.

ME: So what you're saying is that you cannot make a proper Tequila Sunrise because I only have a small airplane bottle of Cuervo and a packet of Sunny Delight orange juice drink concentrate on the end-table by your chair. You're saying things like, "Bullshit Sunrise."

RAY: Damn straight! I got like 50cl of bad tequila here, a paper cup, and some powdered Tang or whatever, and you think this is how you treat a guest? Man, I know you know better than this, dogg. You know how to set up a basic decency bar. You're just tryin' to piss me off. You got a game plan, here.

ME: Well, maybe I do. Let's see.

RAY: [waits]

ME: Interesting. You're waiting to see if, for no reason, something exciting will happen. You grew up wealthy, is that correct?

RAY: I'm waiting for you to make this worth my while. Most any dude in the game would know to get his subject juiced so that he'll talk.

ME: So you want to get drunk and talk about yourself. Hold on, I'm writing this down.

RAY: It's your show, man. I'm just tellin' you.

ME: There have been ideas, in the public, that you like hop-hip music.

RAY: Man, don't be stupid [sips from Bullshit Sunrise cocktail]. Hip-hop is here to stay.

ME: What does that mean, "here to stay."

RAY: It means kids will always play these records, forever! Hip hop is the streets!

ME: Yes, we often hear about this, this hard life and bad scene. How come people who have a bad life sing so many songs? Is it from the slave tradition? You almost never hear of plantation owners coming up with wonderful, original music. Wasn't the only music ever written by a plantation owner, "chopsticks"?

Continues...

Page from Man Why You Even Got To Do A Thing

Page 2 from Beef's Zine

Thursday, Jun 01, 2006

RAY: [looks at drink, shakes head] This is no way to treat a man. What did you say?

ME: I said that growing up wealthy, you probably should not listen to and promote music that is about a rough life, because it seems insincere. Like you just want money, or that you think poor people are hilarious.

RAY: You sayin' I ain't legit? Let's remember who gave who a tiny bottle of Cuervo and some damn sugar powder.

ME: I'm glad you mention that, this "legit" concept. What does that mean? From what I see, "legit" means you have a big hat and fake teeth. Do all rappers take their inspiration from wanting to be like George Washington, the founding father of our country and first President?

RAY: No, almost none. There are these players outta Boston, callin' themselves TriQuorn, 'cause they wear those tri-corn hats like from old times, but they mainly do it out of—hey, man. I got no business tellin' you this. I'm still in talks with these guys.

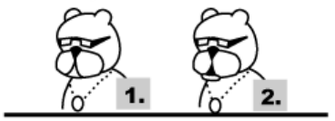

ME: What kind of leggings.

RAY: What?

ME: What kind of leggings do they wear. Silk breeches and all that?

RAY: They wear Diesel. It's not like a historical rapping society or anything, they just have the hats, with red bandannas tied real tight underneath.

ME: If they don't rap about history, aren't they doomed to repeat it?

RAY: I don't even know what you're on about. Let's change the subject.

ME: Okay, good. I have another subject. Do you want to know what it is?

RAY: Getting me a real drink now that I've gotten this one past the gatekeeper?

ME: Oh, all right. I will get you buzzed so you can talk about yourself. [leaves, returns with three MGDs hanging from the yoke]

RAY: These ain't even cold, and plus MGD is VERY terrible.

ME: You just drank a shot of cuervo with Sunny Delight concentrate in it. How can you judge this beer now.

RAY: [accepts a beer] Just sayin'. So anyhow, what else did you want to cover? I write a lot of music, guide a lot of small businesses, paint...[sips]

ME: Do you like to cook.

RAY: Of COURSE I like to cook! Next question!

ME: Actually I think we're about out of time.

RAY: Okay, cool. You want to shoot some pool or something?

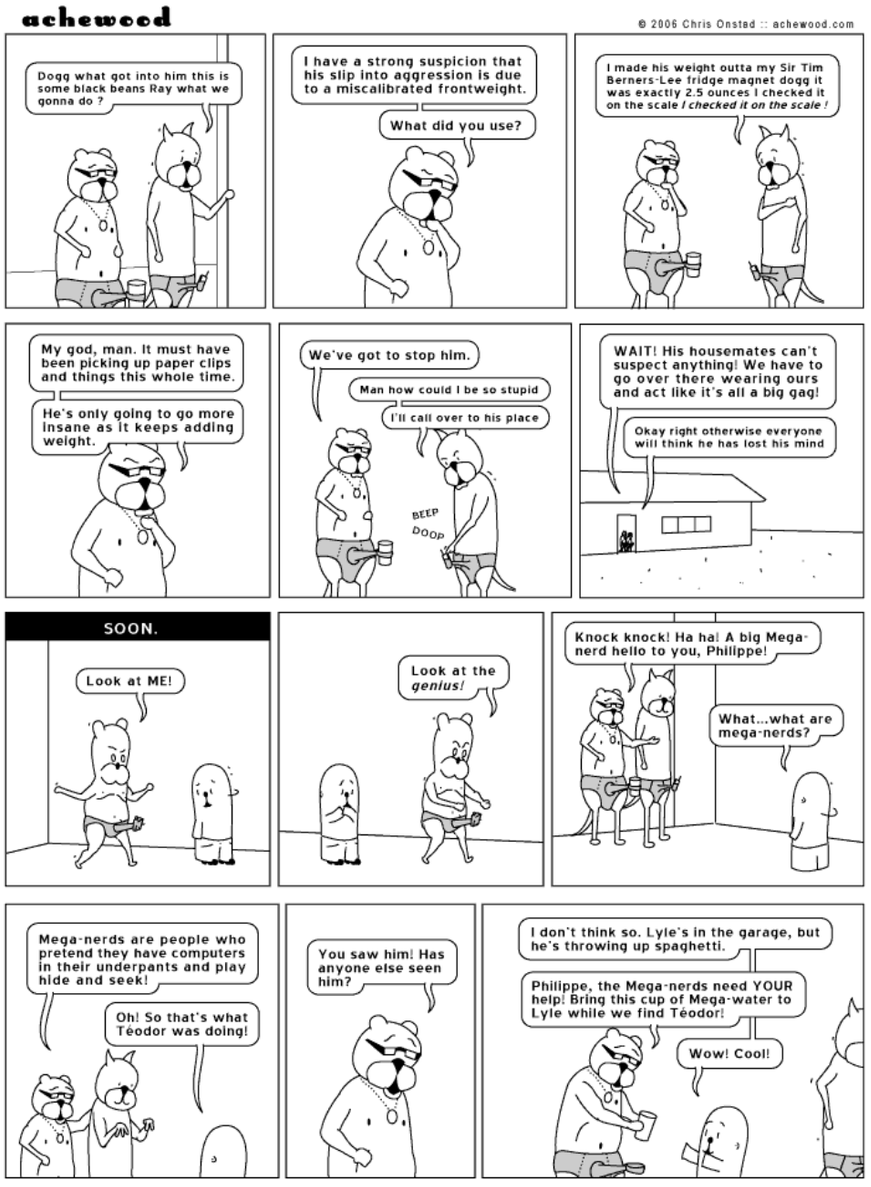

ME: Oh nice let's go.

RAY: [walks out of room] This interview is ovah'. ■

Erotic Fiction

by Ed E. "Steam Keys" Haskell

J-Boy laid back on the couch, naked as hell, and twice as horny. Maria, insane with ass, did Miami claps with her booty. This made J-Boy say that she was so hot. The words came out of his mouth before he knew what was happening. She had her perfectly identical breasts going this way and that. It was about eighty-five degrees, and their bodies naturally produced a cooling layer of sweat.

J-Boy took a hit of marijuana from a small bong shaped like a chisel-tip marker. He liked to think that if the police ever came to his house, they would just see the bong as a school supply. He blew the smoke up in Maria's face, only she wasn't there. She had gone to turn up the music on the CD player. It was Jah Rhyme's ultra-club mix of Da Riggy, fast and pulsing with beats. He set the bong aside to a place where it was unlikely to get knocked over and spill its smelly water on the floor, as that would ruin the sex energy of the room.

> "He sucked down a Molson, and then another, for energy. For fun."

Maria came back over to the couch, only he was no longer there. She heard sounds coming from the apartment's small kitchen. If she knew anything, she knew that that was where he had gone. The apartment had three rooms, and was hard to hide in. Also, why would he hide from her? He wouldn't. He had said so, earlier, when she had shown up at his door.

She walked her sexy legs into the kitchen, and saw that he was breaking some eggs into a pan. The microwave showed that it was cooking something for thirty minutes, so she asked about that. Oh, he said. That was supposed to be three minutes. My bad.

The eggs sizzled in the pan. He pointed to a poster for a movie that had been out about twelve years ago. The movie had been adapted from a novel his grandpa had written, he said. She looked at the poster. "From a novel by Sheldon Handler," part of the credits read. J-Boy's last name was Handler? She hadn't known.

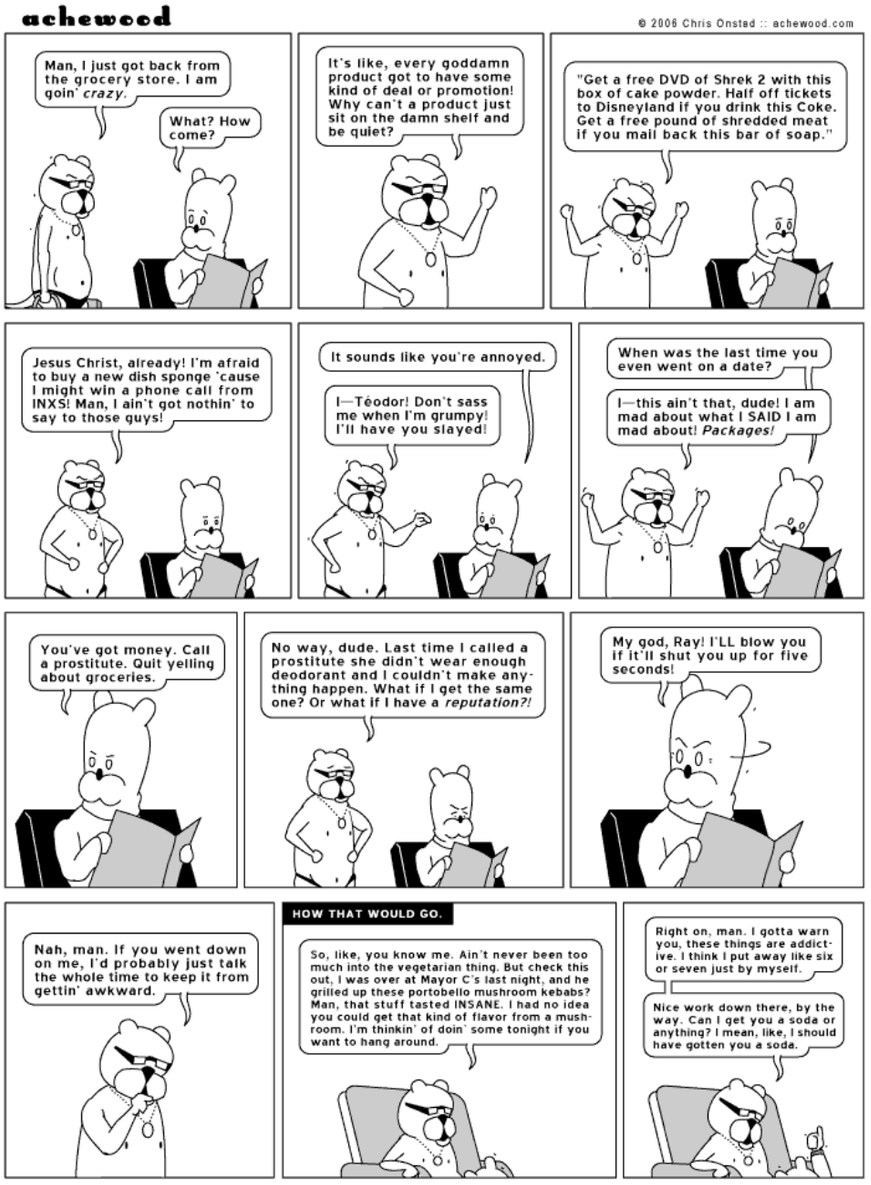

J-Boy ate a snack of eggs, cooked a little too long so that they had brown lacy crust on both sides, and microwaved hashbrown potatoes, which were clearish-white and extremely sticky. He sucked down a Molson, and then another, for energy. For fun. They hadn't been in the fridge yet, and so they foamed a bunch: aww yeah. He watched twelve minutes of Breed All About It on Animal Planet and fell asleep. In the bathroom, Maria Googled his family on his wireless laptop. Then she looked at MySpace pages of people who had an interest in his grandfather's novel. ■

The Philippe Times. Back Page: When You Take a Shower, You Get Drenched! Vol 8 No. 5

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

This is what I would look like in black-and-white

DID YOU KNOW...

CARAMEL isn't really "caramel" at all! It's sugar melted down with cream and water!

LIGHT SPEED:
Light travels really fast - 186,281 miles per second - much faster than we need it to. It turns out that most of the time we only need light to travel about thirty-five miles per hour, the same speed as a Dodge Neon.

CAN KNIGHTS DISAGREE WITH POLICEMEN?
Only on neutral ground, such as Iceland. Fact.

ACORN UPDATE
Yeah, don't eat 'em.

GUESS JAR
Everybody knows that I'll make some mistakes each day. Here's a fun "social orthotic" [Cornelius said those words]: set up a Guess Jar! Every time someone wants to guess what my daily mistakes will be, they put a coin in the Guess Jar. Then they can say their guesses out loud!

Dogs can't drink from straws! No lips. Not good ones, anyway. More like "mouth edges." Sheesh! How many Sundays DID God take off, anyways?! I think God owes dogs some do-overs.

In the "This Is Crazy" Department:
Scallops can swim! They don't just stay stuck to the sea bed like oysters or clams! Oh my god I almost barfed on the ground when I saw Animal Planet's show about scallops and one shot up and swam away like a crazy catcher's mitt.

Envirotek Deck Restoration will give you 10% off sanding and sealing! This is our first ad. Not quite sure how this works. I don't think you call me. I think you call them. Tell them I'm running their ad.

Chris has put over fifty dollars in the Guess Jar. He says it's "cheaper than therapy or bullets."

THE BIG RELIGIONS:
Christian, Buddhist, Islam, Hindu. Also: Jewish.

The best painting in the world? The Mona Lisa. Hands down.

LYLE just beat a guy up! He says the guy really "bent over and took it," too. I don't like fighting but Lyle is very inspirational with his energy. I think he could run a great church if he wasn't the opposite of a church.

All people who enjoy facts will enjoy this picture of the first genius.

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

I'm a pig for Halloween!

DID YOU KNOW...

Ray just came back from MEXICO! Sorry, no souvenirs...unless you count a spider bite that looks like a tablespoon of blackberry jam.

Put a baseball cap and sunglasses on a celebrity and BOOM! Disguise! Next time you see that outfit, you gotta wonder...Garth Brooks? Dale Junior?

The police came and are giving Lyle a talking-to! I guess he had irked them. Wait...he irked someone at a bar last night...forty-three times...stitches...developing...

SENSATIONAL DEVELOPMENT:
Lyle is arrested.

* * * GRAB BAG * * *

HEY-O! Did you know that prison costs the state more than it costs the criminal? This fact comes to us from little Todd Squirrel! Prison costs the state "like a hundred bucks a day," and the crook gets free stew and jammies! Sound like heaven, anyone?

EMBARRASSING
Téodor was checking some snapshots of naked people for his art degree, and I butted in without knocking! I am embarrassed. I need to get better about knocking. (Don't worry about what I saw...it's all a blur.)

EMOTICONS! :^0
There's a new language, and it's letter-art! Check below.

Smiley face: :)

Sad face: :(

Idiot: 8•||

UFO bomber: €·.···. . . ˙ .

Do you have a photographic memory, or do you just SAY you do? It's hard to test for, but most people are lying. I'm proud to admit I don't.

Venice is an Italian City where they use boats instead of cars! Must make for some boring police chases! "Pull-a over! Do-a the right thing! Why you gotta be-a so bad?"

Philippe is five. He don't know too much stuff yet so some of this is made up. Don't take it as the final word. —R.B.

INTERVIEW

Cornelius Bear

— Interview by Ed E. Haskell

Many guys know Cornelius as a dude from around the place, an old guy who ain't got no family and rooms with the crew out of simple pragmacticality. You would be all like, "Old dude ain't got a scene, hella sad" but you'd be wrong. Cornelius has been there and here in his months and the dude knows to get into a place where he has what he needs. Turns out he likes livin' with the spazz-spectrum they got goin' on at the Onstad house. Dude likes his space, but also likes keepin' it fresh with the Todds and babies and Métrodors and little otter guys. He is an unusual sort who keeps a lobe open for life, and since around here life is an ambulance eternally carting some dumb idea between two passing-out brains, he gets it like he likes it. He is patient, he is smart, and he is classy. He knows which finger to stick out during tea, and it ain't the one you think. I give you...Cornelius Bear. Interview conducted by phone on October 19, 2006.

ME: Cornelius what are you doing. Probably every moment is precious at your age. I'm sorry to take up some of them.

CORNELIUS BEAR: I'm having a toaster waffle, actually. I've been enjoying these as an evening treat lately.

ME: Are you serious. After all the chips have been counted, you like a frozen toaster waffle. Even though you have probably had côte de boeuf à la incendiênne done tableside at a place in Normandy in the 60s.

CB: One wants different things from food at my age. I've pleasantly found that my palate prefers simplicity, the older I get.

ME: Oh man don't say it.

CB: Indeed. Some mornings, I don't even take coffee. A mug of hot water and a cold towel across the forehead serve as my liaison to the day.

ME: Man now there is a thing. You ain't even need food. Your system is so fine and old that you just need temperatures.

ME: Which do you think is the health-iest Chinese dish?

CB: [soup]

CB: Well, I don't know if I'd put it quite like that. I am eating this waffle, after all. For lunch I had some penne with spicy sausage that was quite nice.

ME: This is a question. After you eat a pretty hot bowl of soup, do you sweat so much that you have to change clothes?

CB: No. Soup affects me very little, if at all. It rarely involves a change in wardrobe.

ME: Dang then that must be my problem. I always get that Won Ton Soup In Deluxe Fashion from Favorite Wok, you know, for three people, 'cause that's the smallest size they offer. I eat the whole thing up then, 'cause ain't nothin' worse than a day-old won ton. But then I'm like two hundred degrees on the inside, and the yoke of my duds is sweated across like a jogger.

CB: That could perhaps cause some organ damage. If you cook, you will see how readily organ meats respond to heat. I have to imagine it's much the same inside of one's self.

ME: Man so I am cooking my own guts with food that can't be right. That is like backwards divided by two.

CB: Well, it's not likely to be a problem, I just want to indicate that one can off-set one's internal temperatures through volume eating.

ME: Oh man you completely got me in a chunder and that is not even a word from America, it is a word from Australia.

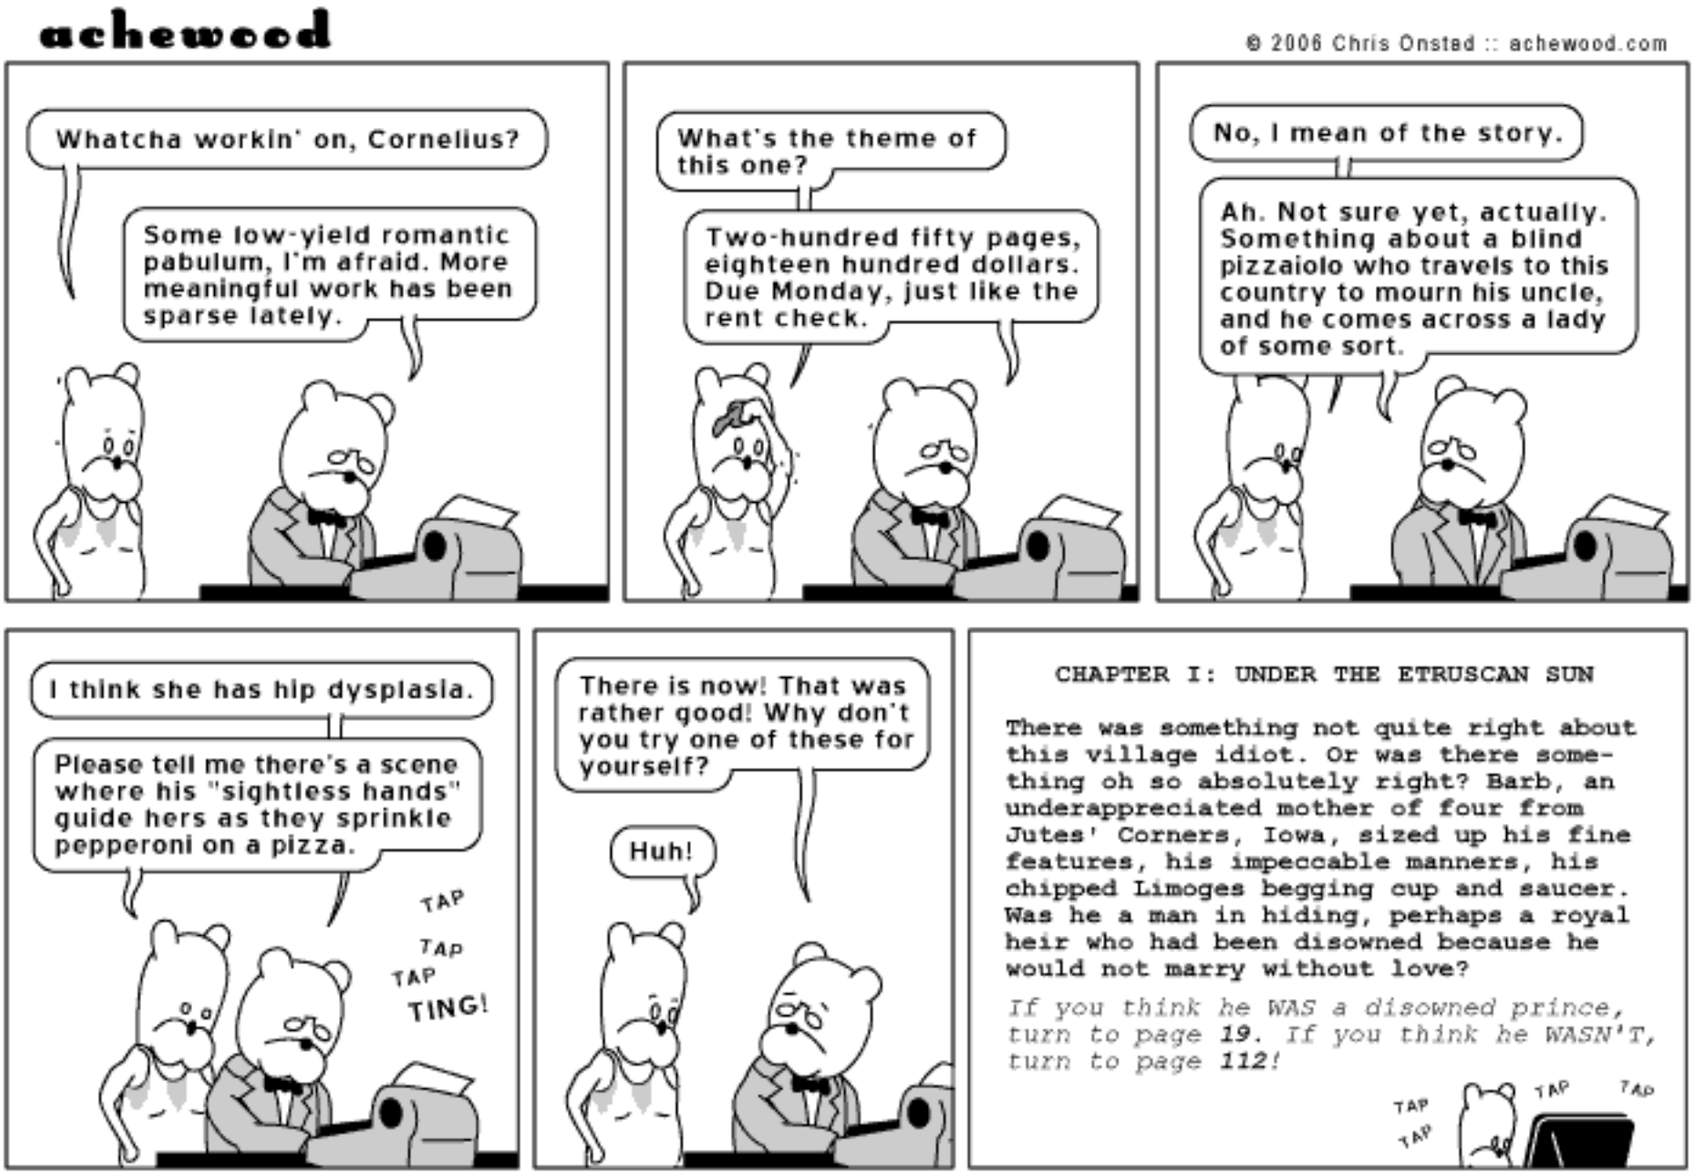

CB: Chunder...do you mean that you need to vomit? I believe the origin of the word is nautical, and was employed by the sea-sick who wished to warn those on lower decks to "watch out down under!" At any rate, I don't mean to make you so nervous that you vomit. The body is remarkable about seeking equilibrium, so you needn't worry unnecessarily. Perhaps let the soup rest for ten minutes before eating it, next

The Philippe Times. Is it rude to want things for Christmas? Vol 8 No. 7

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

What happens if kids smoke (die)

DID YOU KNOW...

According to Roast Beef, he was listening to "The Cars" at a stop light on Friday afternoon, and a construction guy pulled up next to him in a big truck. The guy gave him a thumbs up and then peeled out right as the light changed!

The scariest invention around? The lawnmower. Stop and think about it: can you believe the government lets us have them?! (Hint: they can kill any of us in under a second if the situation is right)

Some say the first CANDY BAR was under two inches long, and slightly irregular!

Lyle made me take a sip of vodka, "or else!" I don't drink or take drugs (except kids' Motrin), and I hated it. It hurt my lips, tongue, inside my neck, and the top of my stomach.

As you read this, somewhere a blue whale is more than a mile under water, in complete blackness, sucking a giant squid into his mouth (mouth = size of a garage door). That is radical!

___AFRICA_CORNER_____

People in Africa still listen to tapes!

Do trees get hurt if you nail a tree house to them? Yes, but in a way that is hard to care about, says Téodor.

You know who never gets to give a high-five after a job well done? A mortician.

If anyone ever asks you if you want a knuckle sandwich, don't try it out, even if they sense that it's your first time and they promise to grind their fist really slowly and carefully into your mouth.

How do old ladies die? It doesn't seem like old ladies should die where anyone can watch. I bet there is a special room under churches.

MORE NO-HIGH-FIVES: The cop who has to shoot people that jump off of tall buildings (before they hit the ground). Saddest job in the world, anyone? Thanks, L.B.!

IDEA: Old ladies all have the same haircut...I bet they tell their beauticians their plans. Beauticians? Write to me!

Note from Roast Beef, paste-up manager: I don't know why the kid is so morbid this week maybe it's the weather

It's Friday! After work, have some beer and go on a cussabout.

"Silent Bird Wallace? I never heard of him."

"You wouldn't have. I'll explain.

"See now, Rustmouth had bad luck. Some said the worst. He would climb up a tree and find five dollars, only to slip on the money—which was nailed down and greased, just his luck—and need a ten-dollar cast. You see? Straight blues."

"Yeah. Damn."

"Silent Bird Wallace had had his tongue cut out by a lynch mob when he was ten, and went from town to town to 'sing' his blues via a local clerk or notary. The way it worked was, he had a lyric sheet for them that went along with his guitar playing."

"Wow. Hard act to follow."

"It wasn't even that. It was the rest of his luck. One show, he'd just wrapped up his last number, a piece about the agony of eating rice, when the barman announced that he had an emergency telephone call from a doctor looking for Bird. The crowd began to chant, and pretty soon the barman was persuaded to patch the call through the saloon's public address system."

"What'd the doctor have to say?"

"That Bird's check for a wooden tongue had bounced, and he was liable for three times its face value, or five hundred dollars, whichever was more."

"Ouch. Poor S.O.B."

"That night he tried to commit suicide in his cheap lodging house room, but it was so bare that all he could do was roll off the bed until the people downstairs complained."

Rustmouth's tune is sung to the cadence of Goodnight, Irene.

INTERVIEW:

MOLLY SANDERS AKA MISS LADY

The tiny kite is less than two feet away

by E.E.H.

ME: Okay so this interview is kind of hard and strange because you are my girlfriend and we do hella private stuff.

MOLLY: Maybe stop thinking about our private stuff for a few seconds?

ME: No thanks.

MOLLY: Really?

ME: Do Not Disturb

MOLLY: Which stuff are you imagining?

ME: When it got raw. That time.

MOLLY: The one in the bathroom? Where you told me about how dirty toilets are, even if they get cleaned? Because of the porous surfaces? And you actually started yelling and got on kind of a high horse about all of it?

ME: Oh my god don't mention about that what in the hell! This is for a magazine!

MOLLY: Sorry, maybe you can ask me about something else. It's your magazine, babe.

ME: Okay like so we know that you are from Wales, right?

MOLLY: Yeah, my family was on the Gwynggeathe, a ship that sank between Fladceate, Wales, and New Amsterdam in 1676.

ME: So when you say New Amsterdam you really mean New York.

MOLLY: Duh, nerd. But that's what it was called at the time.

ME: And since then you just hung out in heaven kind of mellow and keeping tabs on things. Until this rude bag of chillies and pistols came along [points to self].

MOLLY: Yeah. I'm not the type of person who goes out and tries to forge new trails. I'm more of a homebody. Like you. If I have new things to read and a few favorite movies, I'm fine. I don't need to go hiking. I know the mountain's there, and that it's wonderful. I'll probably see it, eventually.

ME: Oh uh I ain't a homebody by any means I am just real real careful about leavin' the house in regards to peak traffic hours and hours when the sun rays are particularly cancerous. You know how drunk people are always drivin' up on sidewalks and you also know how the atmosphere is about allowin' certain bad rays through at certain hours. That's why they always shoot movies real early in the morning, it's because Scientology tells the big stars about how daytime light is the most dangerous. I'm almost sure that I agree.

MOLLY: I thought that had more to do with the quality of light early in the morning. It's more friendly to film, it looks warmer.

ME: Well, that's definitely an information-soft answer.

MOLLY: Don't be an ass. We still have to go out to dinner after this, and I want to have a nice time.

ME: Well whose fault is that.

MOLLY: Mine. I'm the only one in this house capable of calling in to a radio show and winning dinner for two at Mes Beauchamps Restaurant and Wine Bar.

ME: And tell them just what question you answered to get this prize.

MOLLY: "Who was the only blond member of the Traveling Wilburys."

ME: Jesus christ how could you know stuff like that! [re-enacting my original aghastness]

MOLLY: Tom Petty. Dylan, Harrison, Orbison...all brunettes.

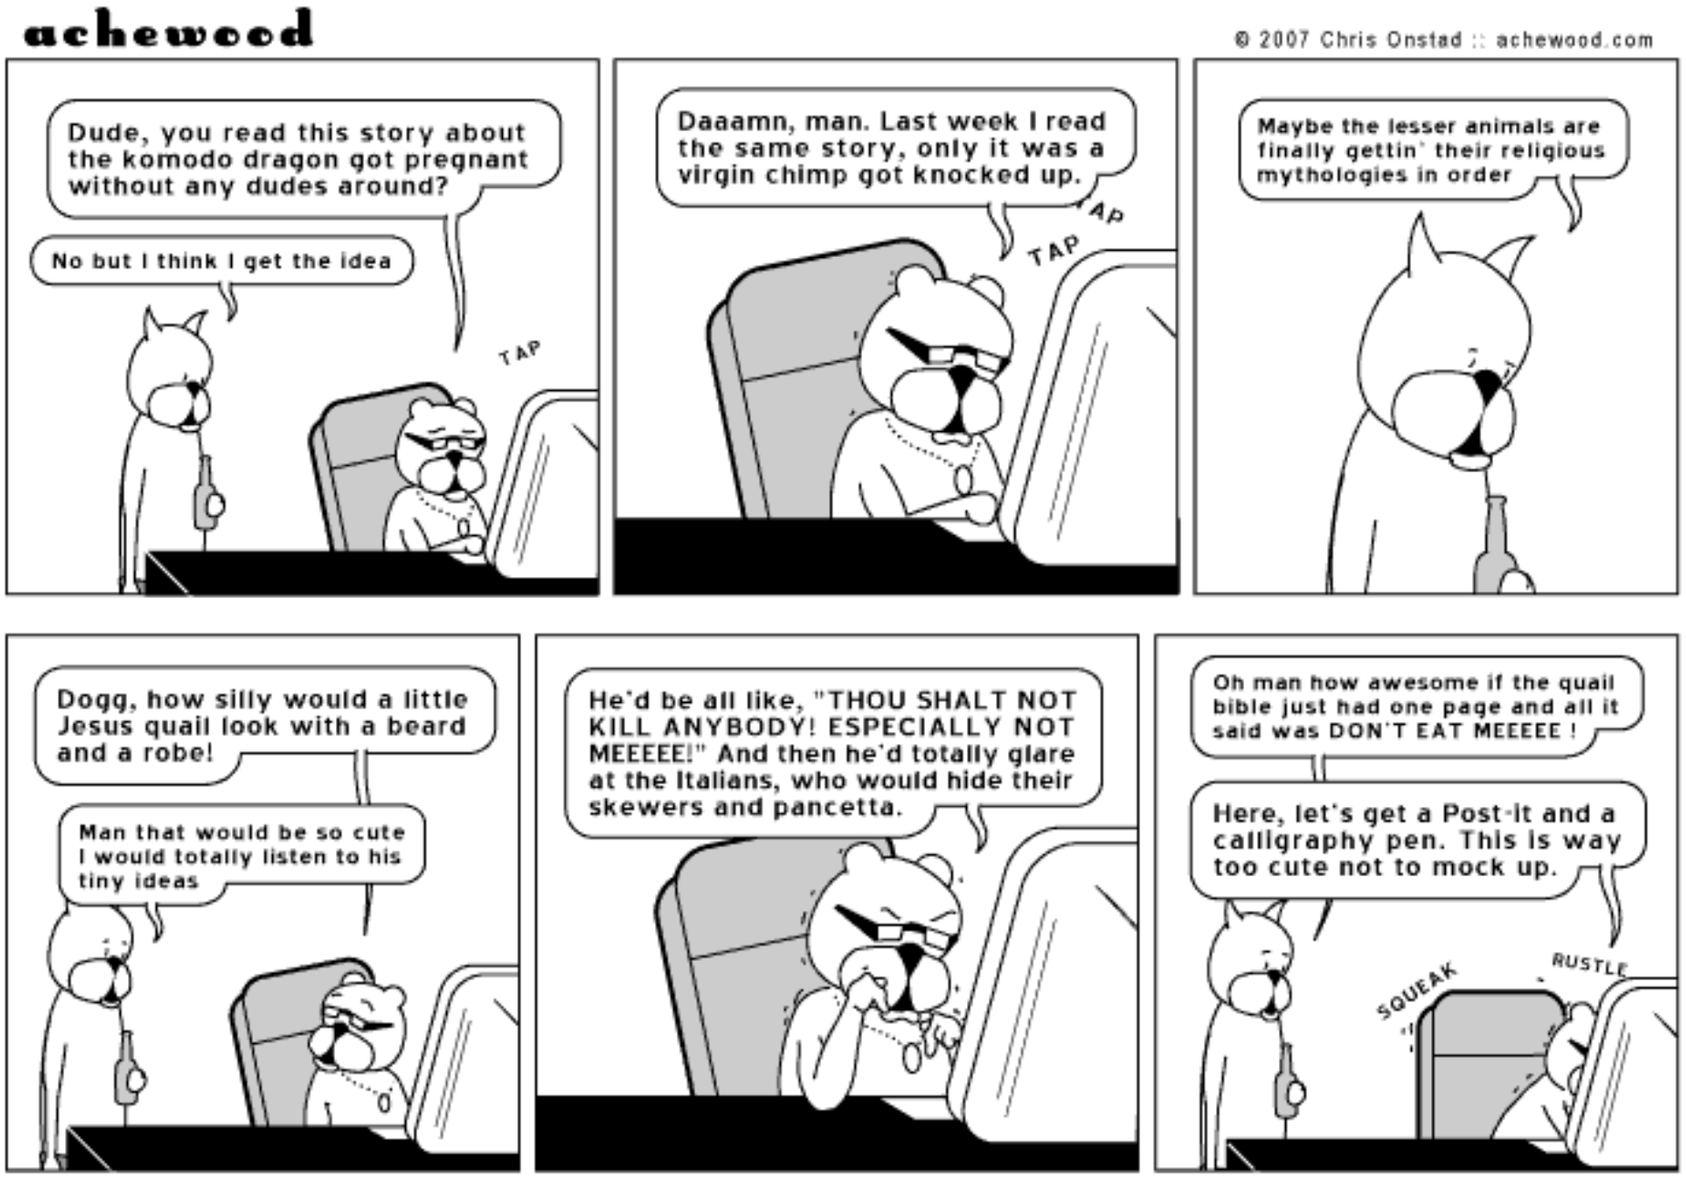

ME: Did you also know that the Traveling Wilburys was the ugliest circle of men ever to have millions of

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

I saw a rodent

DID YOU KNOW...

According to Roast Beef, bad breath is caused when "chemicals in your mouth just let it all hang loose."

I think Lyle is getting a real estate license! He is talking on the phone about "the curtains matching the carpet." Good for him.

I promised to write down the first thing Ray said when he came over:

.....WARNING: CUSSES AHEAD!..... Okay, he walked in the front door and said, "Well HELL and GOD DAMN does it smell good in here! Who's the FANCY MOTHERFER cookin' up them tasty smells?" (Téodor was cooking his famous risotto, and bowed).
.....END OF CUSSES.....

Introducing...Kid Cusses! Kids, these are cusses you can say without getting into the hard stuff:

"Aw, peanutbeans!" (general cuss)
"Lester has the onions." (body odor)
"She's so pretty, a dog barks!" (if you see a really pretty lady)
"Frederick is being a real tush head."

Chris says that someone named Don Imus is, "...like Andy Rooney, only senile, old, and grouchy." Whatever.

Chris just got yelled at because he thought that ponies grew up to be regular horses. How can that guy be a dad?! Get out of here, Chris. (just kidding)

Pony.

Horse (duh).

Ray's newest Cadillac Escalade has a trash compactor.

TOM CRUISE hasn't done anything lately, so no one has to be tired of him.

Every time Ray burps, "an angel gets a plantar wart," or so he says. He has had some wine.

Ray is going to invent a town in Arizona called "Clue Hat." He's serious about this (although he IS laughing a lot).

Téodor says he will open a competing town called "Miracle Slice, Tennessee."

Lyle left, and they started to make fun of him. Roast Beef said, "He's the sort of man who poops with the door open at Thanksgiving." Too true!

BTW, Roast Beef had to get a new "AIM handle" because he forgot his password! Now he's... _end_of_times_wigger_

What's a Canadian? He's like an American, but he doesn't use a lot of dangerous adjectives. (Thanks, L.B.)

MAN WHY YOU EVEN GOT TO DO A THING

your host
—Ed E. Haskell—

An examination of my mouth when I sneeze

editor's hello corner

Hello. Dang people so like you know it is a Thing that I am engaged to Miss Lady now. There came a time. Anyhow, don't worry crafters, this ain't gonna soften up as a 'zine and start appearin' at the grocery checkout next to Redbook. (Can someone please tell me what in hell that magazine even is.) You ain't gonna find an article about how to make a nice sash to hide your balls when you are an otherwise naked high-ranking Swiss military officer. You ain't gonna see a piece about the ups and downs and happy-sappy overall ups of bein' hitched. There will not be a large type edition, or an edition that Oprah can like. This 'zine is gonna stay dirty and low and stupid and useless, just like I swore to Jesus on the day he gave me this keyboard and showed me that picture of two sets of footprints goin' down a beach, and there's this one stretch where there's only one set of footprints, and I was like, "what's that all about," and He said, "Ed E. Haskell, that was when you were writing MAN WHY YOU EVEN GOT TO DO A THING." So it is said. Enjoy the new issue, I think it's the fifth one. —EEH

Curse of the Sea Bitch and Braebicus Dict updates:

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

Again with the sneezes!

DID YOU KNOW...

 ALERT! ***
LYLE HAS NEW GLASSES

He looks like that famous sick person who drives in a wheelchair and understands space! That guy who was on Discovery Channel and has a machine that knows when he's smiling!

RAY'S REACTION: "Jesus C#####, Lyle! What Soviet carpet salesman you pry those things off of?!"

ACCORDING TO LYLE: He does not have health insurance, so everyone should go and "[sin against their own bodies.]"

Téodor tells me I was talking about Steven Hawking here.*

 ALERT IS REMOVED ***

Here's a scientific test I would like to do! Separate identical twins, and then hit one on the head with a pillow. Does the other one automatically say, "Aww, cut it out, mister!" ?

(Sometimes an idea that doesn't seem like it can help out in the war over terror actually can. It takes everyone's help.)

According to Lyle, he remembers who Peter Frampton is. Maybe next week he'll share!

Not everybody is ready to be friends, but how can you tell? I think we should sell Friend Touchers. These are a special perfect yellow stick, and everybody knows what it means. If you smile when someone lightly touches your arm with it, you're ready!

It's pretty bad how many people are dying lately.

"Probably like sixteen bucks," Ray said, in an unfriendly voice. The way he looked at the floor let me know that he was personally mad.

Lackey note: People got much gripes on Lyle's new frames but it ain't like he got health insurance. I always think a dude of low frames is rollin' harder than some gink with cop-out Malcom Xs. —RBK

Fig You Friday!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

WHY DO PEOPLE KEEP WAKING ME UP ALL NIGHT?!

I'm mad! I'm mad as figs and I'm not going to take it anymore! Figs to you! Go sit on a fig! You'll wish you didn't!

 FRIDAY FIG FACT 1 *****
The people next door moved out, and they were dropping furniture in the driveway until 1 AM! They didn't give a fig!

FACT 2
Chris went out and yelled and really "gave them a mouthful!" He said the actual F-word in every sentence! You might say he "sentenced them" "to the F-word!"

FACT 3
He was in his underpants. They are disguised as tiny plaid shorts, so cops will keep driving. Chris knows a few things about crime.

FACT 4
Lyle says that Chris can use the F-word as any part of speech, if he's tired enough and his bank account is low.

When some people get mad they can say up to one hundred things that they regret!

FACT 5
Wow! Mr. Bear says that last week Chris used the F-word as a "co-ordinating conjunction," which is really rare! His bank account must have been super low.

I asked ROAST BEEF if he was mad about anything, and he said, "Oh dang little fella I don't want to put the sauce in your ears."

* Is RAY mad about anything? *
 "N o p e!" **

Is LYLE mad about anything? You bet! He was trying to mail a post-card to a friend in England, and he got pretty steamed by how long their addresses are! Look:

Keith "Kez" Helpingsall
Place Gittins
Governance Pasture
Twine Ailment
12, Uppings
Salute
Creamharrow
Lanx 1Y1 276
England.

A NOTE FROM THE BEEFERY:
I did not want to put sauce in his ears but dang if it all don't just piss me up mainly.

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

SPORTS TRIVIA!

I'm a Bathlete! My best event is the two-meter backstroke, but I'm getting better at the one-meter. (Totally different "discipline.")

What's the worst tattoo to get? Probably a football with a worm coming out of it, on your cheek.

How far can Lyle throw a beer bottle? Far enough that he doesn't get in trouble for it. (He proved that six times at lunch today.)

The first sport? Wu-dzuh, a Chinese game that is similar to chasing someone around inside an empty van. (Thanks, L.B.!)

What's the only sport where half of the players totally don't agree that it's a sport? Bass fishing.

 SPORTS THAT  * IMPROVE WITH AGE DEPT *

The first time they had ice skating at the Olympics, you could win by just not falling down for three minutes.

Basketball — the first "basket" actually WAS a basket! It was considered annoying if you scored, because somebody had to go and find a ladder.

Ray keeps active. He likes many things, all the time.

GOLF! In the old days they used to hit sheep doodles with driftwood, but these days Tiger Woods has more money than Scotland! [True.]

 (END OF THAT DEPT) ***

There is a famous ice skater named Dick Button. Say the first name stronger than the last. It's pretty bad. Are some names...crimes?

Soccer is popular everywhere but America. Why, you ask? Because Americans like when things happen.

Rally car racing is also popular all over the world! ...How come? Trusted friend Roast Beef says, "In guilt, we ultimately want to be destroyed by the machines we are using to destroy the world." Gonna have to think about THAT one!

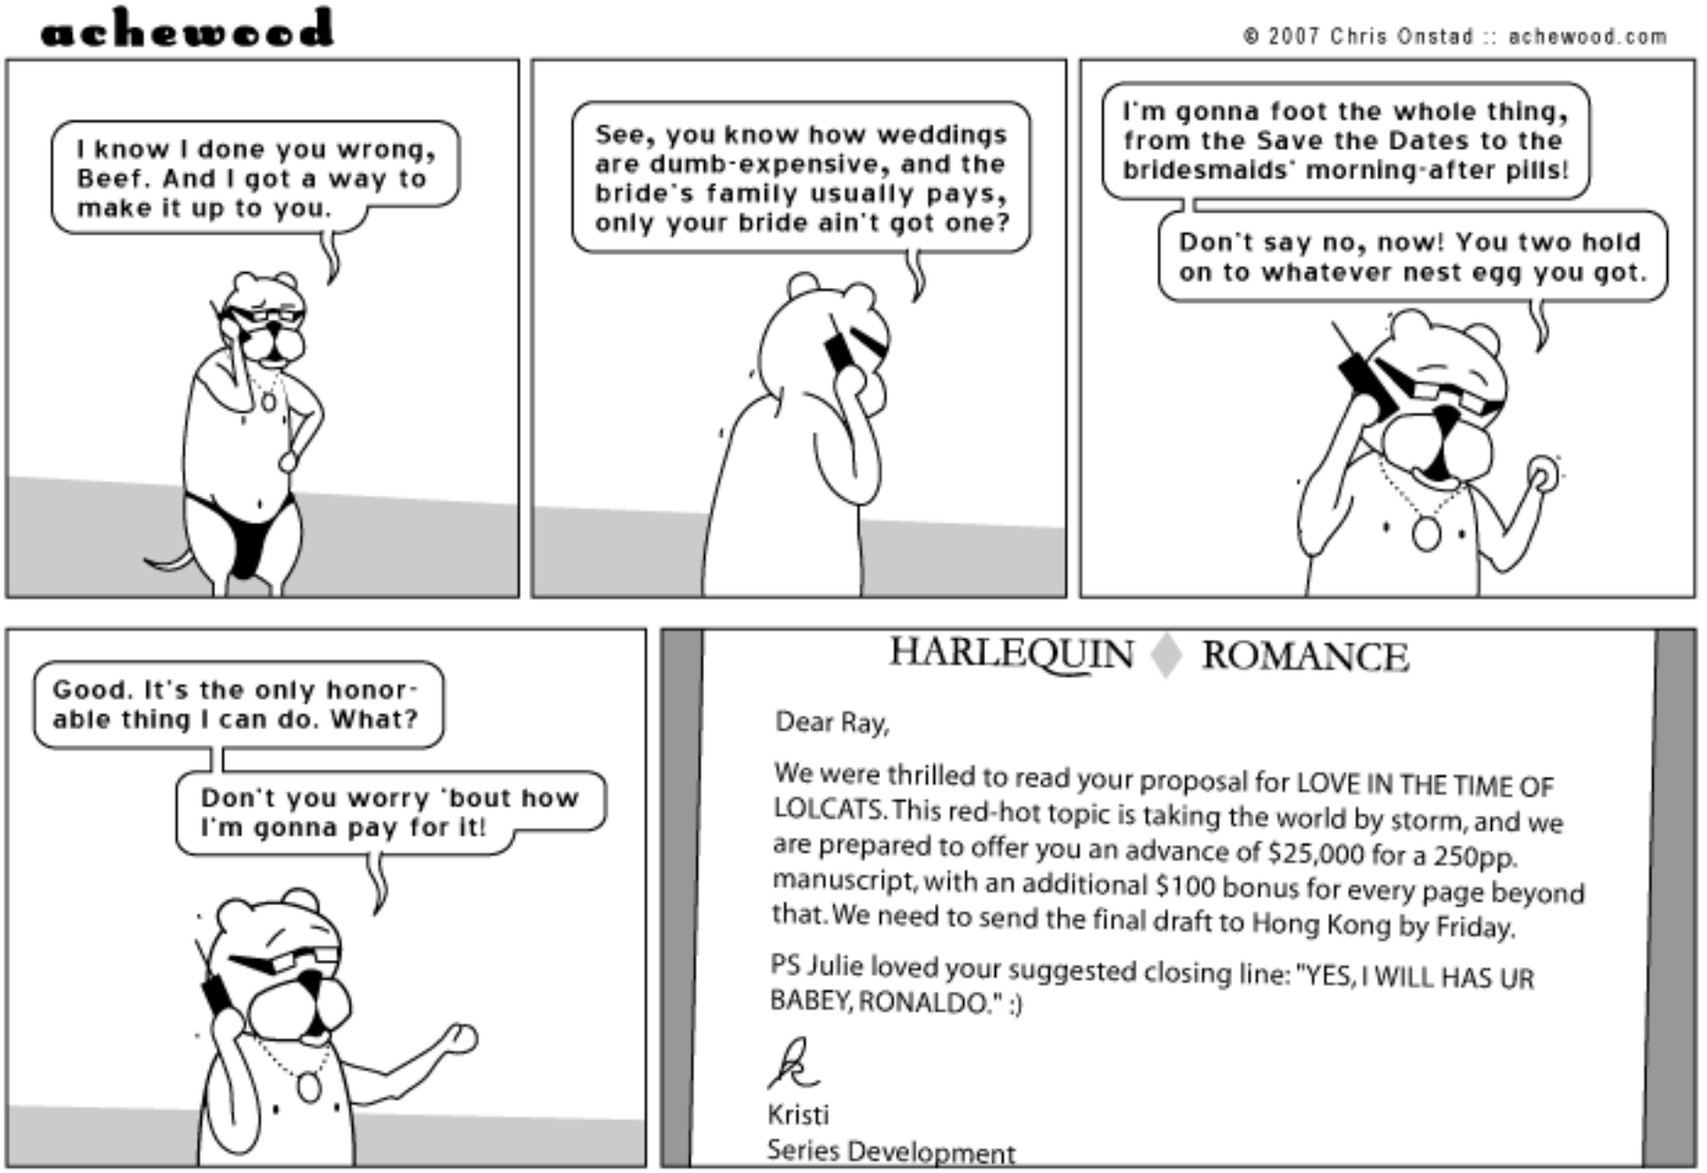

He also thinks that the mothers of the greatest ski jumpers cry from the moment their sons are born until the moment they die ski jumping. "They just seem to know."

Basketball: The only game where winning was considered rude.

Dick Button looks like a passable maître d' on ice

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

WHAT I SAW IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD!

TÉODOR is playing his guitar into a computer website about meeting girls. His door is cracked a little. A lot of the guys in the house are sad for him.

Lyle is watching a parents' video called "Dumb Thick Trick." That is his Decision. God says we should not have opinions, but I can tell that He also wouldn't want us to have This video.

Molly is going to get married to Roast Beef! She was smiling and knitting him a hat on the couch, and he was throwing up in the yard under the special Nervousness Blanket that Ray gave him.

Speaking of throwing up, Lyle has a video of that too. Where is it from? A school for curious doctors?

Have you heard of Rod Huggins? He's Pat's new "partner." Are they cops together or something? They were wearing cop hats when I sinned and looked in Pat's bedroom window. The weird part was that they only had white socks and boots on, instead of the regular whole cop outfit! What the heck?!

Nice Pete (crazy) was on Pat's couch eating a bucket of drumsticks. After he sucks all the meat off the bone he breaks it in half and drops it back in the bucket. He does not smile or frown.

Talked to Lyle! He says there are three main kinds of throwing up: Original, Intentional, and Marinara.

MAILBOX MINUTE: Ray has been getting some weird junk mail! What is the Sir Chauncey Mason School For Young Jerks?

MAILBOX, CON'T: Ray mailed a big check to someone, but he left the stamp off. Who is Fondness, and why was there cologne in the envelope?

SCIENCE SECTION

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

Don't think MOTORS are important? Then try having things in your life! You'll get the picture pretty quick. (The picture will be of you in a field with a rash.) Come along and learn more!

Kid Rock's Limo! (he has to drive)

SCARIEST MOTOR: A huge "chipper/shredder" from space that grinds up whole communities / the motor at the factory that slices baloney loafs a hundred times a second [tie]. (Thanks Roast Beef!)

 MOTORS DEPT. **

In France, it is considered rude not to smoke and walk away when someone asks you a question.

Lyle picked up a movie! He left it on the coffee table. Has anyone seen "THE BITCHSEER"? He says it's about a man who can see mean women through walls. Any good?

 BACK "2" MOTORS! **
(Téodor is going to take over while I watch Catch That Dog in the living room.)

Hey everyone, Téodor here. DID YOU KNOW that Hunardo Culini, of Italy, invented a machine that is bored with his wife even when he isn't? It's so the guys don't think he's gone "soft."

The Philippe Times. It's Acting Mania Day! Vol 9 No. 17

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

If I was a famous director

DID YOU KNOW...

The best actor of all time? Mickey Mouse. Eighty years of great acting, and NO drugs.

What's Mickey's car of choice? You guessed it - just a basic one. 1993 Toyota Corolla.

Unlike Mickey, Goofy is still considered a bad actor and not someone kids can like. He is currently a mailman.

A LOOK INSIDE MICKEY'S APARTMENT!

Lots of actors go for mansions, but Mickey has a different perspective! "I rent," he says, "because that way the landlord gets some money, and I don't have to trim the hedges!" Sounds good to us!

Mickey Mouse has a good, plain car.

Kevin Spacey is probably a good guy, but it makes me nervous that he might have secrets.

The abalone is prized for its flesh.

Mr. Bear is in the kitchen making his own mayonnaise! He messed up a couple times, and he said Shakespeare to himself! "Gaze not 'pon that fractured condiment, Dilutio, and fetch it to yon drain..."

Philippe is just a kid and he has got no idea about what his talking means. He don't know that Mickey Mouse is just a drawing. —RBK

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

Me.

DID YOU KNOW...

Dogs cannot say or mean thank you!

A PHONE CALL FROM ME DEPT: I called Ray to get the scoop on what he was watching on TV! He said, "Naked men fighting sincerely in water." He answered pretty quick — doubt that was a lie!

Téodor said that he said a zinger! "Vegetarians are the buboes in the armpit of America's misunderstanding of itself." A complicated idea, but possibly rude.

The next Jack Black film? "The Arrest and Release of Ronnie Mexico." That's Roast Beef's guess, based on how things have gone.

Téodor says that the Gordon Ramsay drinking game would go like this: "Stop driiinking, you minging cunt!" Heh! What's a cunt? The smallest cup at 7-11?

Wisdom from Vlad: "You should not tease a rectum or a priest." How do you tease a rectum? With one of those fake guns that shoots out a flag that says POW? Because that's a good way to tease a priest! (Is a rectum where a priest waits before he says mass?)

PHILIPPE'S GUESS PLACE!

Téodor: "That...it's a thing from the 80s."

This Guess Place courtesy of Chris's Room!

Chris's dad dropped off a box of old 60s "mod" albums! He said that he didn't want them "at all." Some of the bands:

Blackpool Gaz and the Beachwarmer Cherries
The Royalty Faction

Plepsk Morning Nights (Swedish)

HARD FACTS ABOUT WHEN LIFE IS ROUGH! GET TOUGH! THESE FACTS WILL HELP.

Tough as the Dickens!

Ray knows how to stab a pig! He found a book from the '20s at the library.

The best kids' band? THE PERFOR-MANIACS. They each wear a different color shirt and one of them was in a fire when he was young. (He's the smooth one.)

"MORNING POLITICS SHOW" DEPT: Where do the toughest, strongest, meanest guys come from? Jail. Please call your local radio show with an opinion.

Ray says that stabbing a pig is easy as pie, and that you can still do it even if you do it wrong.

What is a heart attack? "It's when your heart says, 'Alright, pal, eat a dick!'" Thanks for the fact, Todd! (Sorry about his cuss, just being a reporter.)

A car? Tons of little explosions. A missile? One long explosion. An explosion? "Depends on how you aim it, what's on top, and who paid for it." (Thanks Roast Beef!)

How come Americans don't play soccer? "We actually do," says Major League Soccer president Frederick Hottingsall-Clidgerreigh. "Lots and lots. Tons and tons. Just loads of the stuff. Good on you for asking, little man." (I called him on the phone.)

Ray is stabbing a couch cushion with a zucchini and Téodor is watching and asking important questions about blood. They are playing hardcore music.

Whoah! There's an argument in the house about shooting birds. I say it's OK, as long as you miss, but Lyle went to get a photo album that he says will prove I'm wrong.

BAD NEWS. Ray has "'rhoid rage" and isn't being nice. (It happened suddenly after he jumped really high in the air and landed really hard on his feet.) Lyle is getting him some medicine. ## Friday Facts!

Flies! Aaaah!

DID YOU KNOW . . .

I wonder if there has ever been a business based on shooting horses that other people didn't want to shoot. You know, like if the horse had a broken leg, or eyes the same color as meatballs.

F A C T ! Know why they shoot a horse with a broken leg? To keep him from "horsin' around!" (Just kidding — it's so that people don't have to watch his agony.)

Andrew Dice Clay is now a children's services worker in Los Bahalia, New Jersey. His current name is Saul L. Weeks, and he has gone through certification. (Thanks, LB!)

THE WORLD'S FASTEST CAR? The Shelby "Ultimate Aero TT." THE SLOWEST CAR? The Microspeed Industries "Kelvin Zero." (Bottom speed: absolute zero!) It's a frozen car that they use to run scientific tests on.

The Kelvin Zero, in the fridge at Kelvin Labs.

Pat came to Ray's party last week! He was drinking Dr. Mohid Prashad's Celery Wine for Thinkers. They say he doesn't like the good stuff.

T O W E R  H O U R

Towers used to be for spying on approaching enemies, but these days they aren't too handy. I'm a tower guy since way back, so I hate to say it!

IS THERE ANYTHING THOMAS EDISON DIDN'T INVENT? Yes: Adjustable dinner room lights, a lady who is a waiter that has a tie on, and Dr. Pepper. (He invented a good drink called Sir Horace Pepper's Font of Ardor that tasted the same, but he did not have the time to market it right!)

Ray is here! He came over. He is telling everybody about his new recipe for "flash-tried cheesecake."

Pat was also nibbling on "Sun-Inured Raita" last week, instead of 'dogs and burgers. Kind of like a white cheese-jerky in milk.

The Philippe Times. It's Lookin' Like a Birthday! Vol 12 No. 8

Friday Facts!

by Philippe, editor-in-chief!

How birthday kids looked in the fifties

DID YOU KNOW...

Kalkulator Qorner!

It's not my birthday for four months. Four months is 120 days. There are 24 hours in a day. There are 60 minutes in an hour. Every minute has sixty seconds. Every one second, I think about my birthday. Period.

Lyle is going to join Gold's Gym, but not for the right reasons. He says it's because he misses prison.

I should start my own gym, for kids! I'd call it Philippe's Fun-E-Max, and it would be a huge slide down to an area where there are permanent Hokey Pokey lessons! Huge TVs would play even huger movies of parades! Ray will know how to make this happen.

____THE LATEST BAD NEWS_____

Ray says kids can't have their own business other than selling lemonade, since it is "acidic enough to kill germs." I guess not everybody is in the clean hands club.

_____SO MUCH FOR THAT_____

Pirates are back! They aren't as cool as before, though. Mostly they wear hand-me-down Bugle Boys. Come on, pirates! You have a great chance to dress up, but you look like guys who steal recycling?

How a modern pirate dresses. Not as good as in the past.

Top Five things I think of when someone says "England": kidneys, eels, "mating about with the lads," rabbits gently drinking soup, my birthday.

Thinking of getting famous? Try these on for size: car crashes, hassles, mean pictures of your buns in the newspaper, and web sites that automatically wait for you to die.

Thinking of my birthday? Me too.

The ugliest animal? Not a chinchilla, that's for darned tootin'! It's like the best parts of a rabbit, a mouse, and Gus Gus from Cinderella, all in one! Oooh, those beggy little hands! My birthday is on August 22nd. 62 Achewood Court.

We got a Wii! There are so many fun games. Téodor bought one called "A-ha: Whac-On-Me," where you have a big hammer and you try to hit a crummy drawing of a cool guy when he pops up out of different holes. Pretty hard, actually.

Note from Roast Beef, paste-up manager: This kid is jazzed as the devil about his damn birthday. He's "pee-tickle" happy.
